BORDER CHARGES LAID BY ETHIOPIA, SOMALIA

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI)—The Ethiopian foreign ministry charged today armed bandits from Somalia this week attacked an Ethiopian police station and a police convoy, resulting in at least 58 persons killed.

MOGADISCIO, Somalia (UPI)—The foreign ministry charged today that Ethiopian fighter planes attacked and destroyed Somalia police posts at two points along the Ethiopian border in a series of raids Wednesday.

Cultural Swap Set Up in Paris

(Times News Services)

PARIS—Canada and France have agreed on a program for increased cultural exchanges between the two nations, it was learned today.

GLENN

... "go" for Senate?

Glenn Orbits Out of Space Into Politics

HOUSTON (UPI) — U.S. senior astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., giving up his "first love," today resigned from the nation's space program to run for the U.S. Senate from his native state of Ohio.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the 42-year-old spaceman "today requested to be relieved of his assignment" with the space agency and its $20 billion program to land men on the moon before the end of the decade.

Top Democratic sources said the astronaut will run for the seat now held by Sen. Stephen Young of Ohio. Glenn is expected to fly to Columbus, Ohio, to formally announce his candidacy.

Glenn vaulted into the history books Feb. 20, 1962, when he rode a silver Atlas rocket into the skies from Cape Canaveral (now Cape Kennedy) and made America's first manned orbital voyage around earth.

Panama Talks Snagged Again

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — A U.S.-Panama agreement for resumption of diplomatic relations appeared on the verge of collapse today and a new political crisis seemed to be brewing.

Persistent reports circulated that Panama planned to expel American diplomats unless the United States agreed formally to negotiate a new Panama Canal Treaty.

Panama City newspapers quoted official sources as saying the government has requested U.S. embassy personnel to leave. Wallace Stewart, U.S. charge d'affaires, said he knew nothing about the report. He noted that technically relations remain broken.

Meanwhile, embassy officials waited with packed bags.

The agreement reached only 24 hours ago was under heavy fire over the issue of whether the United States is willing to "negotiate" a new canal treaty or merely "discuss" that possibility with other issues stemming from last week's rioting.

A Spanish version of the agreement used the term

Details of the program are to be disclosed Friday in the windup communique following visiting Prime Minister Lester Pearson's talks with President Charles de Gaulle and other French leaders.

Informed sources said the program will involve "at least $100,000" and be accented on a scholarship exchange program between the two nations.

The agreement is part of a general drive by the two governments to lend new meaning to the historic bonds between them. Efforts already have been made to boost exchanges between the respective publicly owned broadcasting systems and film agencies.

FINAL STAGES

Word of the scholarship program, which may include performing artists as well, broke off as Pearson moved into the final stages of his informal discussions with French leaders.

He met Prime Minister Georges Pompidou for 30 minutes privately and then joined him at lunch. There was no official word on this meeting except that the talks were "useful."

Later in the day Pearson returned to the Elysee Palace, where he met with de Gaulle for 90 minutes Wednesday, for a final session with the president. The two men met alone Wednesday, but were joined this time by other ministers.

There was support for the general impression among the Canadians that the talks were going well in the fact that de Gaulle asked Pearson to remain half an hour beyond the planned time for their first meeting. When it ended, de Gaulle personally conducted Pearson to the door and bade him goodbye as he drove back to his hotel.

DENY REPORTS

Officials denied reports that the welcome given Pearson was any less enthusiastic than that given Premier Lesage of Quebec when he arrived in Ottawa.

VISITING Governor of Alabama, George Wallace, right, was met at Pat Bay Airport today by Dr. Edgar Efrat, sponsor of the University of Victoria political science club which invited the controversial American to speak here. Gov. Wallace arrived in a private Lockheed Lodestar executive plane, which was flying the Confederate flag.

WALLACE TELLS CANADA:

'Let Negroes Enter, Then Criticize South'

By PETE LOUDON

Alabama's Governor George Wallace today threw the question of racial intolerance back into the teeth of his Victoria press conference questioners.

"You don't have any Negroes here because your immigration laws are such," he said.

"I feel that if any of you people think this is a great moral issue, you should lead a drive to change your immigration laws and bring in Negroes," he said.

He added that far too many people "preach one system and practice another."

STRONG SUPPORT

The governor was speaking just prior to his noon invitation speech to Victoria University students in the Students Union Building at Gordon Head campus.

He came in the course of a speaking tour of the north-west United States, where he said his reception had been one of enthusiastic support for his pro-segregation policies.

They were highlighted last June 11 when he defied a federal government order for integration of the University of Alabama and backed down only when confronted by armed troops.

The governor was outspoken in defence of his idea that black and white peoples should enjoy equal rights but in separate societies.

BLAMES REDS

He condemned publications such as Time magazine for reporting that Birmingham was the scene of race violence.

He blamed all the notorious troubles there on Communist agitators, and he defended the use of dogs and fire hoses in quelling Negroes as safe and sane alternatives to clubbing people with nightsticks.

"Hoses are a very humane way to stop a riot. There were only 22 people hurt in 45 days, and you couldn't find any seriously injured person," he said.

"A dog does away with having to hit someone with a nightstick. He doesn't bite, he only catches your clothes."

IN JOBS

Here are other quotes from the press conference:

"We oppose integration in society and education, but we have had it for a long time in employment... We feel it is the right of the people to decide if the state should determine that matter...

"The education system for Negroes is just as good as that for whites, and the average Negro teacher at the moment is paid a higher salary..."

"The civil rights bills are really a grab for federal power in our country... They are really laws to destroy property rights..."

"I just don't see how Congress can pass those bills. If members of Congress could vote secretly, they wouldn't pass."

NO PROBLEM

"There is no race problem in Alabama. We have a situation. The problem is in the north."

Asked whether President Johnson would be as tough as president Kennedy on civil rights issues, he said "time will tell," adding, "we people

CHOU JOINS NKRUMAH IN PARLEY CALL

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters) — President Kwame Nkrumah and Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai today declared desirable the convening of an "anti-imperialist conference" of Afro-Asian and Latin American peoples.

The declaration was made in a communique issued here following Chou's departure earlier today for Mali after a five-day visit to Ghana.

During the visit he was estimated to have held 10 hours of formal and informal talks with Nkrumah.

The two leaders also considered a conference of the world's heads of government would be beneficial "if it would be convened for the purpose of signing an international convention prohibiting the development and use of all nuclear weapons and the complete destruction of existing nuclear weapons and their stockpiles."

Southeasterly winds of up to 25 miles an hour are expected overnight. Temperatures may fall to about 35 degrees tonight, rising to 45 Friday morning.

The temperature at Gonzales weather station at noon was 42.

Gale Winds Rip Island; Damage Light

Comox Valley Clogged

Victoria was swept by gales and gusts of up to 65 miles an hour early today while heavy snow fell in the Comox Valley.

Other parts of the island, including northern Port Hardy, reported mild uneventful weather.

The gales reached their maximum force between 4 and 5 a.m., but strong westerly winds were felt for several hours after. Trees and fences were blown down and some roof damage was reported along the Dallas Road waterfront.

FOOT OF SNOW

Between nine and 12 inches of snow fell in Campbell River and the Comox Valley between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m., and in lesser amounts the snow extended as far south as Nanaimo Bay, which is 15 miles north of Nanaimo.

Pacific Western Airlines cancelled its morning flight to Campbell River because of 12 inches of snow at the airport. Instead, passengers from Vancouver are being landed at Comox and taken on to Campbell River by coach.

The flight to Comox was delayed three hours while Comox Airport was being cleared of snow.

CARS STRANDED

A number of motorists were stranded overnight between Comox and Courtenay. The RCMP at Comox reported several cars were unable to climb the fairly steep hill just outside Comox.

Comox Village had 12 inches of snow and plows were in operation all night. At noon today conditions were reported to be improving rapidly with no further snow expected.

Telephone circuits in the Comox Valley were thrown out of order by the snow and the service between Victoria and Comox and Courtenay was interrupted for more than an hour.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines' regular passenger service to Campbell River was interrupted by the snowfall.

Light snow was reported at Parksville, Qualicum Beach and Port Alberni.

By contrast with Vancouver Island's snow and wind, the temperature climbed to an unseasonable 53 degrees at Abbotsford in the lower Fraser Valley.

Victoria weatherman Bill Mackie forecasts showers this afternoon and evening, followed by fairly heavy rainfall Friday.

Southeasterly winds of up to 25 miles an hour are expected overnight. Temperatures may fall to about 35 degrees tonight, rising to 45 Friday morning.

The temperature at Gonzales weather station at noon was 42.

ROGERS PASS CLOSED, WAVES WHIP WEST VAN

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winds gusting up to 60 miles per hour battered parts of the B.C. Lower Mainland Wednesday night and in the interior storms dumped several inches of snow in some areas.

The Rogers Pass highway between B.C. and Alberta was closed at 9 a.m. this morning after an army Howitzer crew brought down several snowslides which covered the highway to a depth of four feet.

Up to 13 inches of snow fell on sections of the road during the night, but the highway is expected to be open later today.

Wind-swept waves crashing over a seawall in West Vancouver flooded the basements of 11 homes in the early morning.

Police and firemen helped occupants haul out furniture and other belongings from basement suites as the 10-foot high waves pounded the homes. One wave hurled a 15-foot log into a home.

WITH U.S.

Fishery Limit Accord Likely

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Robichaud reiterated today that he is "quite hopeful" of getting United States agreement to observe the 12-mile fishing limit Canada plans to impose along its coasts next May.

He said this would mean the U.S. giving up the historic rights of American fishermen to fish Canada's coastal waters, areas they have fished for centuries.

Canada now has a three-mile fishing limit, within its territorial waters, but has served notice that it intends to extend this to 12 miles as a conservation measure and to protect the interests of Canadian coastal fishermen. It would keep foreign fishermen outside the new line.

Two meetings on the question have been held with the Americans and a third is planned early in February. Mr. Robichaud said talks so far have been "very satisfactory" and the final agreement could come next month.

Once the American agreement is nailed down, Canada will resume negotiations with other countries in a bid to get complete agreement before the May move. France, Portugal, Iceland, Japan and Russia are involved.

TREATIES NOT INVOLVED

The negotiations do not involve the treaty rights of foreign fishermen.

"We do not intend to interfere with any treaty," Mr. Robichaud stressed. Only the historical, or traditional, rights are being re-negotiated. They would be erased gradually, probably over 10 years.

Canada is anxious not to force the issue with the U.S. in case annoyed U.S. legislators decide to retaliate with restrictions on Canadian fish imports. The U.S. row is Canada's biggest market for fish products, taking an estimated $116,000,000 of the $157,000,000 worth Canada exported in 1962.

Collision In Channel

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — The Belgian Dover-to-Oostende channel ferry Konig Alberth collided today with an oil tanker some 10 miles off Dover, a Belgian communications ministry official said today.

RUBY McKAY SPEAKS OUT

B.C. 'Sadly' Fails to Recruit Social Workers

(Third in a Series)

Is the British Columbia government making a sincere attempt to recruit more social workers for its overworked welfare service?

Some light was thrown on the question last week when Welfare Minister W. D. Black said in a television interview that he has never visited with the school of social work faculty at University of B.C.

Former superintendent of child welfare in B.C., Miss Ruby McKay holds herself aloof from politics and personal brickbats in discussing her ideas for improving the service.

Her only comment on the lack of liaison is: "How sad."

On the positive side, however, she states, "The schools of social work in Canada offer fine training."

Entice More

"I would think the government has its present situation, where it admits it needs social workers so desperately, would go to UBC and place its problems before the faculty school and together work out the kind of scholarship and bursary plan necessary to entice more students into the field."

She said other provinces constantly negotiate with their universities in this regard.

In a previous chapter in this series, Miss McKay said the prime way to relieve B.C. social workers from an overpowering burden is the recruitment of high school graduates for the routine work in welfare district offices.

Should Get Aid

She says these people also should be encouraged to later attend university for training in the handling of difficult human problems. They should be given leave of absence and financial aid.

Prior to this they should receive carefully planned in-service training and be subject to annual review of their job performance.

"With qualified supervisors the unqualified, gifted person can be a valuable adjunct to the professional," she states.

"It seems to me we might liken the social welfare branch to a large general hospital set up to treat large numbers of people with different conditions and needs."

"The hospital must have doctors and nurses, but it also must have a core of allied technical staff—lab and X-ray technicians. And to free graduate nurses to the work for which they are trained, a plan of nurses' aides has long been effective."

"Some district offices of the social work branch do have similar systems in effect where trained and experienced staff are free to devote their efforts and skills to the family in trouble, the child needing care and protection or adoption placement, the unwed mother and the deeply disturbed small adolescent.

Determine Needs

"I gather that where such systems exist they have been found effective," said Miss McKay. She said she feels it would strengthen the whole department if a uniform plan emerged, determining what type of staff should be engaged to ensure efficient, appropriate handling of each client and the freeing of highly trained personnel to tasks worthy of their training.

But the professionals now in the work must be freed from the great burdens they now carry if they are to instruct the non-professionals. There are only five in the field now who hold a master's degree and only 30 with a bachelor of social work degrees, out of a total social work staff of almost 250.

There are, as well, about 30 supervisors of whom 10 have

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

(Times News Services)

CHATHAM, Ont.—Two drivers chose a three-day jail term and a third paid a $15 fine Wednesday for operating unsafe cars.

Police said that when Victor Hood, 27, was stopped Dec. 30, one of his car's headlights was rusted out of the fender; the brake, signal and licence-plate lights were not working; five windows were broken; the front end was out of alignment; the front seat tipped back 45 degrees; there was a seven-inch piece of jagged chrome jutting from the side; two tires were nearly flat and the other two had cord showing through.

Hood chose jail rather than a $15 fine.

Raymond Paquette, 23, was driving a car Dec. 7 which had no hand or foot brakes, no lights, badly-worn tires and a body so badly rusted police said they were amazed the doors were still attached. Paquette, who works in a garage as a body repair man, paid the fine.

In the third case, police said when they stopped Robert Blanchette Jan. 7 his car had no floor boards in front, no hand brakes, no lights, a broken exhaust pipe and a body so badly rusted it could not be repaired. Blanchette also chose three days in jail.

COLLEGE PARK, Md.—Students at the University of Maryland discovered during a recent snowstorm that cafeteria trays make wonderful sleds, and that's how all the trouble began.

B. James Borreson, executive dean for student life, ordered all trays removed from the university dining halls after 40 to 50 students were injured and 4,000 trays disappeared.

"It's the most hazardous kind of thing you could imagine," Borreson said.

Removal of all the trays set off a noisy demonstration by about 1,000 trayless diners and campus police had to be called to restore order.

LONDON — Europeans alarmed by the U.S. governments report on smoking turned to governments, hypnotists and little blue pipes for women today to help them kick the cigarette habit.

In The Netherlands, tobacco shop owners reported a run on pipes by women. They said they were selling small, elegant ladies' pipes, painted brown or bright blue.

Some shopkeepers said they were installing mirrors so their women customers could see how they look with the pipes.

The state-owned Danish Radio announced it would broadcast an hour of anti-smoking hypnotism Friday night by "cure expert" Paul Kofod.

Kofod said he planned to get listeners to "relax in every little muscle," then suggest to them that they later "will feel an increasing disgust of tobacco ... you will not want to smoke."

In Paris, city councilman Andre Wel-Curiel sent a letter to the health-ministry demanding that it ban all tobacco advertising.

The French tobacco industry is a government monopoly.

HYTHE, England — An orchid fancier admitted today he stole 25 rare orchids from the famed Rothschild greenhouses to enhance his own collection.

"My interest in this plant got out of proportion, and to improve my display I went to Exbury and took some," said Mervyn Henry Phillips, 32.

Exbury is the site of the orchid collection kept by Edmund De Rothschild, the London banker.

Phillips told the court: "I found the lure of the orchid just too much. I cannot say why it fascinates me. With some people it is stamps. With me it is orchids."

He was fined £40 ($120). The orchids were returned intact.

NEW YORK — Just to think about it would give most householders the willies: A million termites.

But someone here has received a gift of precisely that many and is delighted.

The gift, comprising the world's largest collection of termite specimens, was made to the American Museum of Natural History. It came from Dr. Alfred E. Emerson, professor emeritus of zoology at the University of Chicago and a research associate in entomology at the museum.

Dr. Emerson spent years in collecting the specimens around the world. They will be used for scientific study at the museum.

De Gaulle's absence from the airport was described as official protocol requiring the head of the French government — Pompidou — to meet the head of Canadian government.

De Gaulle, as head of state, would receive the visiting Canadian head of state — the governor-general.

The assessment of Wednesday's events was that both Pearson and de Gaulle, conversing with only an interpreter present, let down their hair on the whole range of international affairs in a manner that promised closer relations between the two in future.

Mr. Pearson said in an interview published here today he hopes France and Canada would hold more frequent talks at ministerial level on problems of common interest.

The Canadian leader told the newspaper Le Monde: "I consider that the framework of our relations should be enlarged to reflect the profound development of our two countries."

Referring to France's refusal to allow stockpiling of American nuclear warheads for the RCAF division based in France, he said Canada had submitted to NATO a proposal which, if agreed upon, should enable the air division to fulfill its mission better. He gave no details.

PAYS HOMAGE

Mr. Pearson today paid homage on behalf of his country to Frenchmen who died in two world wars — in both cases fighting as Canada's allies.

Pearson motored up the Avenue des Champs-Elysees to the Arc de Triomphe to place a wreath on the tomb of the French unknown soldier. The unidentified hero beneath the in the south are a little tired of being pushed around for political reasons.

"There is no total integration anywhere in the world where Negroes and white people are involved. They are different by law of nature."

He said in Washington, D.C., since the passage of integration laws, some schools are 87 per cent Negro and 13 per cent white. "They want us to integrate, but they rush their children to Virginia and Maryland to put them in private schools."

Governor Wallace said he has had a million pieces of mail supporting his position.

"We even got mail from Canada, many letters, mainly in support. I would be glad to let you have a look at the letters."

MET BY FEW

Wallace flew into Pat Bay airport in a converted Lockheed Lodestar executive plane, bearing the Confederate flag, accompanied by his official party.

He was met by a handful of University of Victoria students and Dr. Edgar Efrat, sponsor of the Political Science Club which invited him to the campus.

The RCMP provided a plainclothes escort to the governor's request. A uniformed RCMP constable was driving an official car.

The governor noticed a chill wind at the airport and said, "You got it cold here, but we got it snowing in Alabama today."

When he landed he asked photographers to include in their pictures the Confederate flag painted on his aircraft. During his press conference he said, jokingly, "We're saving Confederate money. We're going to rise again."

Wind, Rain Snow Lash Washington

SEATTLE (AP)—A heavy wind and rain storm raked western Washington during the night, then swept across the Cascades and pushed toward the Rockies where the weather bureau expected it to pick up force again.

Gusts to 50 miles an hour were recorded in the Puget Sound region after the storm, generated by a vigorous cold front, hit the coast.

Scattered breaks in power and minor damage accompanied the blow, which dumped nearly a foot and a half of new snow in the Cascades.

He will be succeeded by Cmdr. Albert Holland, executive officer of the base.

Famed Policeman Dies

REGINA (CP)—Bill Greer, who in 37 years of service with the Regina city police became perhaps the best-known police constable in Canada, died here Wednesday. Mr. Greer, who remained a constable at his own request despite offers of promotion, served his last 17 years on patrol at Regina's main downtown intersection.

Militia Command Set Up By Arabs

CAIRO (AP) — The 13-nation Arab summit conference has agreed to set up a joint military command in an effort to head off Israel's diversion of Jordan River waters.

In a remarkable display of unity, the often feuding leaders of 100,000,000 Arabs voted Wednesday night to establish a military committee with "administrative and financial possibilities as well as permanent headquarters, and all that these entail," a spokesman said.

A final summit session to approve the resolution was expected tonight.

Though the spokesman said Arab leaders had agreed on a "positive solution" of the problem raised by Israel's irrigation project, it still was generally doubted they anticipate war with Israel soon.

GAVE NO DETAILS

The spokesman would give no details of the new command and declined to say whether all Arab states would participate.

The spokesman said the agreement did not specify the area in which Arab forces might operate and did not limit the command to any specific task. He would not say whether troops of one nation would be stationed in the territory of another. He said no site had been selected for the command's headquarters.

Joint military commands have been proclaimed with great fanfare in the Arab world in the past, but they have usually foundered in the traditional discord of the Middle East. Most arrangements have involved President Nasser's United Arab Republic and one or more other countries.

However, this would be the first joint command of the entire Arab world.

FROST NIPS VEGETABLES IN FLORIDA

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Another winter storm brought snow and ice to the central portion of the south-eastern United States today. It was the fourth snow storm of the winter in a region where snow once a year is the rule.

Cold weather dealt Florida a blow Wednesday. The state's winter vegetable crop was damaged, but there was little damage to the citrus crop.

IGNORES PACT

Johnson Readies Reply to K

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is preparing to tell Soviet Premier Khrushchev in a message next week the United States agrees that border disputes between nations should be settled peacefully.

In a note replying to Khrushchev's recent proposal for a world-wide non-aggression pact, Johnson intends to remind the Soviet leader that the United Nations operates as a world-wide peace-keeping organization, although it needs further strengthening.

The president's proposed reply, described by officials as a four-page document, was dispatched by the state department Wednesday to Allied governments for their study and comment. The form in which it will go to Khrushchev may be substantially changed, depending on Allied reactions.

The message as drafted ignores Khrushchev's specific proposal for a world-wide treaty pledging a peaceful settlement of territorial claims.

In effect, Johnson rejects this proposal by omission, as one informant put it, and also by pointing to the United Nations as a peace-keeping agency whose members have already made non-aggression pledges.

MDs Threaten Strike

BRUSSELS (AP) — A spokesman for 8,000 of Belgium's 10,000 doctors said Wednesday they will strike if the government insists on enforcing its new health insurance law. Most doctors and dentists in two of the country's provinces already are on strike. The spokesman said other doctors would answer a call for a general strike, but would treat emergency cases.

GOV'T MOVE TO END CURBS

British Retailers Gird For All Out 'Price War'

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — British retailers prepared for a "price war" today despite warnings that what happened in Canada could happen here.

In an action that may become an election issue, trade boss Edward Heath is moving to abolish resale price maintenance—a device that enables manufacturers to set the price tags for their products.

The decision, announced Wednesday in the Commons, may not become fully effective for some 18 months but it immediately produced a mixed reaction from retailers. Supermarkets saluted it with delight. Small shopkeepers saw themselves going out of business.

Leonard Pagliaro, chairman of a price maintenance committee, challenged Heath's claim that doing away with the price-setting practice would bring down prices and infuse a new vigor into the economy.

"This is not borne out by the experience in Canada," said Pagliaro. "When RPM was abolished in that country, the level of prices rose and they are finding they have to back-track in their legislation."

On the government side, the only reference to Canadian example came in a background paper accompanying Heath's statement.

This referred to an extensive inquiry made by the government into the effects of resale price maintenance, and said that information had been obtained from other countries as well as Britain, notably Canada and Sweden.

In Whitehall, the impression seemed to be that inferences favoring abolition of RPM were drawn from the Canadian precedents.

In British decision to set prices free—with the qualification that claims for exemption may be made in a six-month period after the relevant legislation—may turn out to be a political boomerang in an election year.

In Napoleon's celebrated phrase, Britain is a nation of shopkeepers, and first indications are that the corner tobacconists, greengrocers and haberdashers will form a noisy opposition.

Big chain stores welcome the change. A spokesman for Garfield Weston's super markets said he is "delighted" because it will mean lower prices for consumers.

British newspapers largely applauded the government's courage in tackling the prickly issue of prices, but some Tory backbenchers feared an angry reaction from constituency parties and trade organizations.

Goodchild Heads New Shakespeare Society Here

Victoria author Roland Goodchild, 1245A Union, was elected president of the Victoria branch of the British Empire Shakespeare Society at a meeting held in the Olde England Inn Wednesday night.

The society was formed recently to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the English bard.

Pro tem secretary is Mrs. Lillian Chambers, 3383 Aloha. Part of Midsummer Night's Dream was read and plans for the future were discussed at the inaugural meeting.

Plans are to meet every two weeks for further readings of Shakespeare's plays and a birthday dinner is scheduled for April 23.

Next meeting will be on Feb. 12 when the club will read As You Like It.

OLD FRIENDS and colleagues of former premier Byron Johnson carry coffin down steps of First United Church while Premier Bennett and his cabinet ministers stand in tribute behind them. Pallbearers on left of coffin in picture are E. T. Kenny, Dr. Jack Chambers and Stuart Keate; on the right of coffin, W. T. Straith, Fred Wright and Don Smith.

MAN OF HONOR AND INTEGRITY

Hundreds of Old Friends Pay Respects to 'Boss'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Byron (Boss) Johnson was a man of honor and integrity who, fearing God, had nothing else to fear.

"We can give him no higher testimony than to say he was a good man and an honest man," said Rev. Robert J. D. Morris of First United Church in a eulogy of one of British Columbia's best-loved premiers.

Mr. Morris was addressing a congregation of more than 500 men and women from Victoria and many parts of Vancouver Island and the mainland who gathered in his church Wednesday afternoon to pay their last respects to Mr. Johnson, who died here Sunday at the age of 73.

The altar was banked high with a profusion of choice blooms, contrasting with the grey wet streets without, as Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, ex-Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross, Premier Bennett and four members of his cabinet and representatives of all political parties took their seats in the church Mr. Johnson had loved.

CONSOLED WIDOW

At the close of the service, Mr. Pearkes and Mr. Bennett walked over to the widow, took her hand and expressed their heartfelt sympathies.

"There are those among us who differed with this man's political philosophy," Mr. Morris said. "But that doesn't matter. What does matter is that so many walk better because he walked their way."

Mr. Morris referred to Mr. Johnson's initiation of hospital insurance in British Columbia, recalling that he, as a young minister, once received a hospital bill for $750 after losing a child.

"I wonder how many thousands of people owe a debt of gratitude to that concept of better living which Mr. Johnson gave us?"

'ONLY HALF STORY'

Mr. Morris referred to the fact that flags all over the province were flying at half-mast in memory of the ex-premier.

"But this is only half the story—they are flying full, free and unfurled in Heaven," Mr. Johnson, he said, had given meaning and intent to the principles of reverence, integrity and service.

"There is a sense in which death is a great leveller and all people—kings and queens, princes and presidents, premiers and statesmen—are joined by all classes and ranks, from the humblest to the greatest, in giving an account of their stewardship."

"This is a moment of fulfillment, not a denial of fruition, not of decay. All of us at this point are as little children who stand in need of God's love and mercy.

"It is not a matter of the office attained, but of the integrity with which that office has been filled, whether it be great or small."

"It is not a matter of honor, for the honor that is given to a man by his contemporaries is a fickle, changeable and unpredictable barometer."

"What does matter is that he is able to give a good account of the life which has been entrusted to him by God."

In a message of sympathy to the mourners, Mr. Morris read from the 14th chapter of St. John, beginning:

"Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so I would have told you."

Two of Mr. Johnson's favorite hymns, "O God Our Help in Ages Past" and "The Lord Is My Shepherd," were included in the service.

Mr. Johnson's widow, Kate; his son, Byron from Salmon Arm, and two sisters, Mrs. C. Russell, Vancouver, and Mrs. D. Evans, Seattle, sat in the front pew beside Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, Premier Bennett and his ministers and Deputy Provincial Secretary L. J. Wallace.

LIFE-LONG FRIENDS

Behind them in the congregation were Rev. W. G. Wilson, DD, an intimate friend of the ex-premier during his 17 years as minister of First United Church; Mayor R. B. Wilson and members of Victoria city council; Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay; Reeve A. C. Wurtelle of Esquimalt; Ray Perrault, leader of the B.C. Liberal Party, and Hon. R. W. Mayhew, former Canadian ambassador to Japan.

The Other Mother

IN HIS CURRENT VISIT TO what he pointedly refers to as one of the mother countries of Canada, Prime Minister Pearson is obviously making a gesture towards Quebec. The surging racial emphasis in that province today has revitalized its 300-year-old links with France. Quebec maintains an official government office in Paris and fosters cultural and other contacts.

Mr. Pearson's visit is thus calculated to please Quebec—as is his appointment of Quebec's Mr. Chevrier to London as Canadian High Commissioner, the first time a non-English Canadian has represented us in Britain. But his efforts to cultivate a closer association with France come at a time when such a trend must run counter to some of Canada's other objectives.

For France today, as represented in President de Gaulle, is at odds to a greater or less extent with most of her Western allies. There is a coolness between Britain and France as a result of General de Gaulle's brusque veto of British membership in the European Common Market. There is concern among some of Canada's friends in Europe—Holland and Belgium to name but two—over the increasing influence which General de Gaulle is attempting to exert on European affairs.

There is a clash of interest—perhaps only reconciled on the surface by the recent Common Market agreement on trade policy—between France, seeking a closer, intramural, tariff-protected trade pattern within the Market; and West Germany, which wishes to expand its world export business and recognizes the need to import world goods if this is to succeed.

But above all, France is at odds—politely but none-the-less definitely—with the United States over trade, defence and nuclear policies. And these practical manifestations are only the visible signs of a deeper schism: deriving from de Gaulle's determination to reduce and eventually remove United States influence in Europe.

It was to a large extent because of Britain's transatlantic ties with the United States that de Gaulle did not want the island kingdom rivaling his power in the Common Market. General de Gaulle has cast public doubts on Washington's intentions to defend Europe and maintain troops there, despite American assurances to the contrary. He has pursued his own independent nuclear way, despite urgings from the United States that he desist. He has refused his NATO allies' the right to use American nuclear warheads from bases in France.

He has opposed West Germany's importation of United States farm produce to the detriment of French producers. He has pursued a France-first policy as regards NATO's European defence forces. He has been a very prickly friend indeed, and the imperial loftiness of his demeanor does not make it any easier to dispel the existing estrangement from the United States.

In making a particular effort to cultivate the French connection at this time, therefore, Mr. Pearson has a few shoals to skirt. In cultural ties, there should be no difficulties. But in furthering economic and political associations he could quickly run into embarrassments involving Canada's chief friends, Britain and the United States.

It should be noted that even in his address at the welcoming banquet in Paris, Mr. Pearson stressed the fact that "each nation can only preserve its national values by cooperating with others to ensure peace and security."

That is plainly an invitation, diplomatically expressed by a visitor, for France to review its posture in the Atlantic alliance, and one which world-statesman Pearson could have been expected to stress. Shortly after returning from Paris, Mr. Pearson will visit Washington. Is it possible that Canada, once the traditional linch-pin between Britain and the United States, may now be engaged in a similar task between France and the United States?

It is an interesting speculation. But so far as Mr. Pearson's ostensible purpose of strengthening our own association goes, it will be difficult, where France's political and economic policies are contrary to those of Canada's nearest friends, for us to align ourselves very closely with Paris no matter how much, for the purposes of domestic peace, we may wish to do so.

"... Of course ... I can see how problems must look tougher to you ... not being immortal ..."

Mr. Snifkin Sacrifices for His Country

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

WHEN my neighbor, Mr. Horace Snifkin, visited me last night, I could see at once what was wrong with him. His hand shook, his voice quavered and beads of sweat glistened on his forehead. Obviously the man had just given up smoking to save his health. Mr. Snifkin confirmed this diagnosis and asked me, as a dying request, to publish the news immediately.

It was only right, he protested, that a humble citizen's victory over sin should be published since every famous newspaper columnist in the land rushed into print as soon as his last cigarette was finished.

The columns everywhere were filled with these repulsive heroes. It was almost news, indeed, Mr. Snifkin added, when a public character refused to stop smoking and lived happily ever afterwards but of course the newspapers invariably suppressed that information.

Mr. Snifkin brought with him a cutting from the Victoria Daily Times in which one of our notable columnists, Mr. Arthur Mayse, confessed that, up to a week ago, he had been addicted to his vice that he had once walked 24 miles, in a coat jungle, to buy a package of cigarettes.

There was also the case of Mr. Stewart Alsop, a distinguished Saturday Evening Post commentator, who wrote that he had sometimes trudged through a blizzard, at night, for the same purpose, while the renowned author, Mr. Quentin Reynolds, had testified, in nation-wide advertisement, that he had been cured, after a life of hideous slavery, by a certain inexpensive pill.

No ancient martyr, said Mr. Snifkin, had ever gone to the stake, no Joan of Arc had ever been burned with such writhing ecstasies of remorse and triumph as now filled the better columns, and all the smoke rising from these flames was guaranteed to be free of nicotine.

But, asked Mr. Snifkin, had these noble penitents ever stopped to think what they were doing to society?

Had they ever realized that the ruin of the tobacco industry in Ontario would soon throw countless growers on the charity of the state, and so increase unemployment that Mr. Gordon would have to budget for a still larger deficit, probably devaluing the Canadian dollar?

Had they considered the future of the widows and orphans dependent for their daily bread on the meager dividends of the tobacco companies? Their fate was too sad to contemplate, said Mr. Snifkin, eyeing my box of cigarettes with a hungry look.

And then again, what about the public revenues? When Mr. Gordon could not count on the tobacco taxes, could no longer balance his budget on smoke, the nation would be bankrupt.

It was all very well for Miss Judy LaMarsh to renounce cigarettes with coast-to-coast fanfare and buy a fashionable wig instead, but had she observed the crisis of her colleague in the finance department? In saving her own, had she no concern for the nation's money?

Worse still, said Mr. Snifkin, the collapse of the cigarette habit must prolong all human life, thereby disrupt the actuarial figures of Mr. Pearson's contributory pension scheme, wreck the insurance companies and doubtless, by making everyone healthy, doom us all to an old age of starvation. Being a non-smoker, the prime minister probably had overlooked these consequences.

Besides, said Mr. Snifkin, his hand creeping nearer to my cigarette box, had anyone paused long enough to reflect on the sanctity of the Canadian home?

As he could affirm, after only one day's experience, a man who gives up smoking is bad-tempered, usually beats his wife, alienates the affection of his innocent offspring, permanently scars their psyche and shatters the fabric of family life, the very core of the social system.

All this was too high a price to pay for any man's health and comfort, Mr. Snifkin concluded. He might feel young again and full of a new vitality (which was invisible to me at the moment) but only at the cost of his helpless fellow creatures.

No, he refused to be guilty of such cynical self-indulgence. He would rise above the ultimate temptation.

So saying, Mr. Snifkin reached for the cigarettes, emptied the box before he had finished the evening's lecture and went home singing under the stars.

FROM WASHINGTON

A Proposed Panama Canal Solution

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WE have been on public notice for about five years that trouble was brewing in Panama and that it had become necessary to readjust the relations between the Canal Zone, which the United States controls, and the Republic of Panama.

Dr. Milton Eisenhower reported this to his brother, the president, in 1958, and in 1962 President Kennedy promised President Chiari that a discussion of the many U.S.-Panamanian problems would be carried on by "high-level representatives." These problems are concerned both with the symbolic question of "sovereignty" and also with the very tangible problems of wages, employment, business relationships and the economic operations of the canal.

The fact is, however, that somehow the intentions of President Eisenhower and of President Kennedy have never been carried out. Even such a concession as Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy agreed to, that both flags be flown at certain places in the Canal Zone, has somehow been nullified, and the whole project of negotiating an acceptable arrangement has been thwarted by residents in the zone, by congressional obstructionists and by the bureaucracy in the Pentagon and the state department.

Americans should be able to understand today, if they did not understand it before, how the French government was prevented from reaching a peaceful solution in Algeria before Algeria burst into flames.

Withdrawal impractical. Although the situation in Panama resembles that in Algeria and also, let us say, that at Suez, the problem which the two American governments must solve is essentially different from both. For the Panamanians cannot redress their grievances, which are both symbolic and substantial, without incurring even greater troubles if they demand that we withdraw, as the French have done in Algeria and the British and French in Suez.

The Panamanians want a revision of the arrangements under the existing treaty. But they want us to stay on to continue to operate the canal. Our citizens have evidently not made themselves much beloved in Panama. But the Panamanian government is not asking the United States to withdraw.

This is a crucial fact in the coming negotiations. Theoretically, there are four ways of dealing with the Panama problem. One would be to "internationalize" the canal and let it be operated by an agency of the United Nations. As this would make the whole business of operating and administering the canal a subject of global politics, it certainly would not prove to be an acceptable solution to the United States. Moreover and fortunately, it would not be acceptable to Panama, which seeks to promote its national interests, not to dilute them in an international agency.

The same argument applies to the suggestion that the canal be turned over to an inter-American agency.

The third solution would be to nationalize the canal by Panama as the Suez Canal has been nationalized by Egypt. There is no reason to think, and evidently the Panamanians do not think, that they have the technical and financial resources for such a huge undertaking.

This brings us to the fourth solution, which would be to negotiate an agreement for what Dr. Eisenhower describes as "a joint United States-Panama management" for which we would "train gradually" Panamanian personnel.

Higher Toll Proposed

Such a program of training could and should be based upon a generous review of the economic relations between the Canal Zone and the Republic. Dr. Eisenhower is in favor of higher tolls which would be used to retire the debt and to increase the cash payments to Panama.

At present, Panama receives an annuity of a little less than $2 million; Dr. Eisenhower would increase this to something like $5 million or more. This would be supplemented by a revision of the business arrangements and of the wages policy in the Canal Zone and by projects for housing and the like in Panama.

On the issue which has caused the violence and the bloodshed of the past few days, there is no honorable position for the United States except one of firm and unequivocal observance of an agreement about flags which symbolizes the titular sovereignty of Panama. There should be no hesitation. And no sabotage should be permitted of the agreements

MARKED for READING OBJECTIVE

Many of us, happy in a creative task, must feel that the lack of a clear and worthwhile objective in life is the principal factor which causes so much of the malaise and restlessness of the present day. In educating our young people, therefore, we as a nation should remember the words of Eric Gill: "An artist is not a special kind of man, but every man is a special kind of artist."

Road-worthy?

The time is long overdue when it should be made compulsory for all cars in the greater Victoria area to pass a road-worthiness test. The number of cars which can be seen daily on the roads in such bad shape is appalling.

Many are being driven for long periods without adequate twin signals, lighting, etc., etc. Then of course there are the cold mornings when almost everything is called on to get these cars started regardless of regulations.

Many of these drivers are scared to stop at stop signs because they know they may stall and be stuck once again. How this type of person can get away with so much for so long is beyond my comprehension.

We hear a lot these days of why wait for spring, do it now. The sooner these cars are made roadworthy the better for all concerned and so reduce the accident rate, etc., etc.

AXEL FORD.

Courage, Arthur

The moanings of columnist Mayse in his struggle to get old man Nicotine off his back are heartrending, but let him pay no heed to the Job's comforters who try to tempt him to give up in his noble effort to prove his manhood.

There are ominous signs that he is cracking under the strain but if he fails now and betrays those who have been watching his sufferings and by a sort of telepathy trying to put some moral stiffening into him he can expect them to refuse to read another line of his; the sissy!

T. E. J.

Reflecting Armbands

With so many older people getting hit by cars at night, I think it would be a good idea for the ones who go out after dark to wear armbands that glow in a car's headlights.

They don't look bad and also can be seen by a driver.

One rainy night we didn't see a fellow till we nearly hit him and it was only because his pant-leg flicked up and we saw part of his white sock.

There are a lot of older people who want to go out and it's a shame that they can't because they may be hit.

L. NELSON.

'One Night Stand'

Christmas has come and gone, the trees are dried up now and so is some of the spirit of the season. The common complaint is, "What happened to Christmas—it came, it went," and so, presumably did a goodly portion of the bank roll!

It's a highly organized Christmas the 1960s have produced. There's the office party, the Christmas card spree which has disintegrated into little more than an "I give you—you give me" racket. The gifts, too, apparently had to be a little bigger and better than ever or there could have been a serious maladjustment to your child, wife, husband—or great aunt.

And then, we mustn't forget the purchase of liquor-type products. Clean the house from top to bottom, dress oversize trees with gaudy trappings. Why? For one period of 24 hours? Certainly under these conditions Christmas becomes nothing more than a huge spending spree with enough sticky traditionalism to give it respectability.

Fortunately the reason why Christmas exists has nothing to do with the aforementioned mass hysteria. For weeks the tired heart has been looking forward to this great event, waiting for the coming of the Holy One. Our lives these days ... let's face it ... can get so wrapped up in transistors, atomic warfares and bills that it takes something big to get through to us.

And so Christ comes. The Old Testament foretells the event. Next the evangelists set the scene for us. Then on a dark windy night, a tired man and his pale little wife make their way down a side street. They are just asking for shelter, any kind will do, it needn't be fancy, just so the little lady on the burro can find somewhere to be delivered of her Baby.

Yes, I know, this was an event of history, in the city of David. But every Christmas He says, "I have come to meet you. O I know you consider yourself no angel, but that is precisely why I'm here. Can you not come to meet Me? Don't be reluctant to bring along your pet frustrations and disappointments, all will disappear with My love."

This makes Christmas—not a one-night stand, but, if you want, a renewal of a long-known but oft-forgotten fact. Now things fall into place ... giving is a snap, the world sings and not only the day, but the whole season is merry. In contemplating future Christmases it might be wise for us to keep even a tiny portion of our hearts uncluttered so we will experience the joy of "seeing God" at Christmas-time.

J.P.

Sensible Sex Education

MEMBERS OF THE BELMONT High School Association have demonstrated a sane and progressive attitude in their endorsement of sex education through special media in their school.

Representatives of the group have watched a film on the subject and heard a recording of a talk given in Chilliwack. They believe that this is a desirable method of presenting the instruction to young people entering their teens, or slightly earlier, and suggest that the film-lecture sessions be attended by a doctor to answer students' questions.

Similar programs in city schools await approval of a panel of clergymen and the approval of the board.

If the instruction is given—as we think it should be—a part of the community will be resuming a program inaugurated earlier at Oak Bay High School and dropped when the municipal boards were amalgamated in the Greater Victoria School District. On the previous occasion the instruction was given by the school nurse and doctor, was provided separately for boys and girls whose parents approved, and was generally applauded by all who took the trouble to determine its merits.

Children of parents who objected to the instruction presumably would not attend the proposed sessions, although it is hard, in this era, to imagine any parent refusing to let a child take part.

Apathy: An Expensive Habit

MR. ANTHONY ROBERTS, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, has emphasized a real danger inherent in the relatively poor turnout of voters in many civic and municipal elections. He told a UBC seminar that in 1962, only 24 per cent of eligible British Columbians cast their ballots in local elections. He noted that an alderman in this province has been elected by as little as seven per cent of the voting population, and a reeve by as little as nine per cent. Greater Victoria can provide its own unfortunate statistics in this regard.

Mr. Roberts draws our attention to the danger of such apathy. Democracy, in such an atmosphere of neglect, could die. An apathetic electorate is the surest cause of civic and municipal ills.

One way to avoid such a breakdown might be for the provincial government to take over local powers—a backward step and one to be avoided. Local government is the level of authority nearest to the people; it is their outlet, their voice and their social machine. To lose it in favor of control by a senior power would be to admit defeat, to acknowledge incompetence to handle one's own affairs.

The proper answer, of course, lies in a public awareness of the importance of local government, an intelligent interest that would make people anxious to have their say through the ballot, a leadership inspired enough to inspire enthusiasm in the public.

These are intangible factors. The tangible one, of course, is the fact that local governments spend millions of dollars a year which must be provided by individual taxpayers. Surely there is sufficient incentive to encourage those who pay, to see that their money is spent wisely.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"DAD! I SEEN A GOOD BOY ALL DAY! WHAT'S NEW WITH YOU?"

...REPORTING

OTTAWA—Roy Thomson's loss of his Canadian citizenship either serves him right or is a gross miscarriage of justice, depending on what you think about titles for Canadians. But one thing's sure: it raises as many questions as it answers.
Roy Thomson is not a guy who discourages easily. If he had been, back in the thirties when he was peddling radios from door to door in Timmins, he wouldn't today be a multi-millionaire with more newspapers under his financial control than any man on the free side of the Iron Curtain. And he was determined to get a title.
The Canadian government wouldn't ask the Queen to give him one. John Diefenbaker, who professes to be a great democrat, said "No!" as sharply as if Thomson had been a Liberal candidate in York Centre, Ont., in 1953, instead of a Tory. And of course the Grits had even less reason to break the 1919 rule against Canadian titles.
The British government wouldn't give him one as a Canadian, for that would certainly offend Ottawa. So Thomson's only chance was to become a Briton—and he apparently thought he could do this without losing his Canadian citizenship. That is, he expected to have dual citizenship.
This idea seems to make some sense when you appreciate that both Canadians and Britons are British subjects. Admittedly this is an anachronism. Canadians are not subjects of the Queen in her capacity as sovereign of Britain, but in her capacity as Queen of Canada. Nevertheless, there it is on the law books: British subject.
However, also on the law books in Sect. 15 (1) of the Canadian Citizenship Act, which states:
"A Canadian citizen, who, when outside of

DISARMAMENT ADJUSTMENT 'EASY'

Radars Make Good Beer Signs

By DAVE MCINTOSH
OTTAWA (CP)—Bringing on disarmament. The economic problems attending it would be child's play compared to the 1945-47 reconstruction period.
This, in effect, is what Canada has told the United Nations for the UN's continuing study of the economic consequences of complete world disarmament.
Coincidentally, the government has been given an example of the modern method of beating swords into plowshares: A European brewery has offered to buy the surplus RCAF rotating radar at Metz, France, to use as a neon sign.
The Canadian government's report to the UN on the economic difficulties posed by disarmament, filed with the UN secretariat some time ago, now is being brought up to date. The report takes on added significance with the resumption of Jap. 21 in Geneva of the 17-nation disarmament negotiation—though no official here expects more than some preliminary East-West agreement, if that.
TO MAKE STUDY
Various government departments compiled information for the report but the defence production department is responsible for most of it. The new Economic Council of Canada is also expected to make a similar study, though this lies well in the future.
The UN estimates that the world disbanding about $120,000,000,000 annually on arms and armed forces. Canada's share run around $1,600,000,000 annually.
Even the total elimination of all existing defence forces and expenditures would involve a shift of resources only one-seventh as great as that required in the immediate post-war period.
In 1944, war expenditures accounted for 72.5 per cent of all federal spending. In 1947, defence spending was only 11 per cent of the total. Today it is about 25 per cent.
Now it represents about four per cent.
Says the UN:
"There are so many competing claims for usefully employing the resources released by disarmament that the real problem is to establish a scale of priorities.
"The achievement of general and complete disarmament would be an unequalled blessing to all mankind."

Uphill Widow Dies
FERNIE, B.C. (CP)—Funeral services will be held Saturday for Mrs. Sarah Ann Uphill, widow of the late Tom Uphill who served in the provincial legislature longer than any other person. She died Wednesday at the age of 89. Her husband, long known as "The Grand Old Man" of the legislature, died early in 1962 after 40 years of continuous service in the house.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Rehabilitation

I wonder how many people realize the miracles that a rather new branch of medical science has accomplished in recent years. I remember when Dr. Howard Rusk in New York City, the great rehabilitator, went with some of his workers to an old people's hospital, and found 100 forgotten patients in bed, getting their meals in bed—hopeless so far as any cure for them was concerned.
Dr. Rusk's people went to work, and within a short time they had all but a very few of those old people up out of bed, some of them into wheelchairs, some onto crutches, some walking, and virtually all of them going to the table to get their meals. Then those who still had a good brain were taught to do certain types of work, so that eventually they could be given jobs with a salary attached. This is what is called rehabilitation, and often it is the most wonderful of all miracles of healing.
I was particularly impressed with the story that Dr. Rusk told me of a young woman who, long after both legs were paralyzed, sat at home in a wheelchair. As I remember, she was a good secretary, but she couldn't get from her wheelchair into a cab. And unless she went to a downtown office she couldn't get a job.
Dr. Rusk's experts taught the girl how to get out of a wheelchair and into a cab, and with this whole new life opened up to her. She was able to get out of that house every day and go and earn a living. Just imagine the joy of that—to a former shut-in.
The other day, in Chicago, I visited a fine rehabilitation hospital. To me it was highly significant that the hospital was originally called "Rest Haven." Now the whole object of the hospital has changed and it is called The Schwaab Rehabilitation Hospital. It is on the west side of Chicago. In this hospital I saw dedicated people teaching partially paralyzed persons to get up and walk around, or to get into a wheelchair and to get about. Men and women were teaching many of the patients who had a bad stroke how to walk again, and how to dress themselves with one hand. Some had to be taught to talk again. In one room I found an expert psychiatrist who had to help many of these people to face a new life, and to face it with hope of being happy and useful again. In one division of the hospital I saw children being helped to use to the best advantage what intelligence they had.

In Chicago there is another rehabilitation clinic started years ago by Dr. Paul Magnuson—a great orthopedist. At that place also, many miracles of healing are being performed.
A while ago when I was in Hawaii I found in Honolulu a fine rehabilitation clinic. The idea is spreading all over the world. As I said here before, one of the finest, most stimulating rehabilitation groups I have ever seen is that started and developed by Henry Viscardi, Jr., of Abilities, Inc., in Alhambra, Long Island, New York. In Viscardi's now huge factory I found 400 people, all of them handicapped in some way, many of them in wheelchairs, but all of them working hard and earning standard wages. Today, Mr. Viscardi is reaching out through the world, trying to get employment managers everywhere to see that a man in a wheelchair can be an excellent workman; there is no sense in saying that because he can't walk he can't ever have a job.
Mr. Viscardi told me how a few years ago he accepted a workman, a man who had been turned down everywhere because he had a very high blood pressure. Mr. Viscardi took him in, and soon found he was such a fine mechanic that he made him a foreman. The man worked hard and well for Mr. Viscardi for, as I remember, three years. As my friend said, he did not lose anything by accepting the man as an employee.

U.S. SUFFERS CRITICISM

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States is "taking a shellacking" on the world opinion front over the Panama situation, the U.S. Information Agency conceded Wednesday.
The agency said in a report on a survey of initial press and official reaction to the violent incidents that the United States is being strongly criticized in many parts of both Latin America and Western Europe.

Fire Protection Improves

MILL BAY—Improved fire protection for this area was indicated at a meeting of Mill Bay Fire Protection District Tuesday night.

A five-man committee elected at the meeting includes chairman H. A. Warner, L. Malleson, Robert Saunders, Arthur Hunter and Clifford Bain.

The committee will look into the future purchasing of fire fighting equipment for the district. At the present time little protection is available, as the district is in unorganized territory south of Duncan.

With the installation of a $66,000 water works system now under construction, several fire hydrants are being installed throughout the area to further assist the committee in its fire protection scheme.

Fluoridation Fight

NANAIMO — Old age pensioners here are planning to oppose Ald. Jack Parker's call for a plebiscite on fluoridation of water supplies.

President Joe Sutton, re-elected this year, said: "Fluoridation won't give us old folks back our teeth, but we do value our stomachs, and fluoridation puts something in them."

School board trustees, on the other hand, decided Wednesday night to support the plebiscite. Trustee Jack Whitlam said: "Lack of it shows in our budget."

Work for Welfare?

COURTENAY (CP)—Mayor William Moore said Wednesday Prime Minister Pearson has informed him that the matter of work for welfare will be discussed at the next federal-provincial conference.

The Courtenay mayor said that while Mr. Pearson did not commit himself, "it almost sounded like the prime minister approved of the idea."

Mayor Moore was involved in a controversy some time ago when he attempted to have welfare recipients work on municipal works projects. He cancelled the plan after the federal government said it would withdraw welfare support if recipients were forced to work for the assistance.

Assessments Checked

NANAIMO — The battle of island assessments is continuing.

R. E. "Doc" Nicoll of Breakwater Island was here Wednesday to inspect assessment rolls and, with other gulf islanders, will be appealing their assessments at a hearing here next month.

"In some cases assessments have risen 2,000 per cent," he said. "The situation is even worse than I thought it was." For the past 10 years Mr. Nicoll has been waging a one-man war against assessors.

Dredging Plans Hit

CAMPBELL RIVER — Tom Barnett, MP for Comox-Alberni, told a meeting here that all action toward possible dredging of the Campbell River had been stopped. Mr. Barnett said he had just received information from Ottawa that any proposals for dredging the river would not be entertained.

Meeting In April

DUNCAN — Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce have been notified that the annual Vancouver Island Chamber of Commerce convention will be held in Duncan in early April. Final arrangements will be made at a meeting in Duncan Jan. 22.

Representatives from the Chamber will attend a meeting in Parksville Jan. 21 to discuss the forthcoming tourist season.

Big Lift for Skiers

CAMPBELL RIVER — Weather permitting, Okanagan Helicopters will give a big lift to skiers at Forbidden Plateau Sunday.

Skiers will be transported from the lodge to the slopes of Mount Beecher by helicopter between 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Mail Box Opposed

DUNCAN — Ald. Robert Mason, who stated that he has always been opposed to parking meters at the post office, suggested that the outside mail box be moved to relieve traffic congestion.

If the box were moved from its present position, where it is on the passenger's side of the car, to the rear of the post office, then it not only would be located on the driver's side but would add two more parking spaces in front of the post office.

Plane Tie-Up Sought

TOFINO — Members of the Ucluelet and Port Albion Chamber of Commerce have expressed interest in securing greater tie-up facilities for seaplanes in the boat basin at Ucluelet. The site was examined last summer by a government engineer.

Thomas Barnett, MP for Comox-Alberni, and Jack Squires, MLA for Alberni, attended the meeting.

Quadra Island Residents Ask Cougar Kill

QUADRA ISLAND — Residents of this large island opposite Campbell River are having cougar trouble again.

During the past two months they have shot seven of the big beasts, and have asked for a government cougar hunter to come to the island and kill even more.

They claim they have found the tracks of at least 30 animals. On the other hand, the predator division of the fish and game branch says there are no cougars on the island.

Shooters on the island include Dick Sumner, A. Foor and Jack Macklin.

Other nearby islands are also said to be overstocked with cougar. Islanders say there has been no organized hunt there in 10 years and little shooting since the bounty was removed.

'PRICE TOO HIGH'

Brewers Beef About Taxes

OTTAWA (CP)—The Carter royal commission on taxation was told today that the Canadian beer industry is being held down by excessive taxation.

The complaint came from the Brewers Association of Canada, whose brief said that the brewing industry, because it is among the most heavily taxed in the country, has been prevented from growing at the same rate as other segments of the economy.

Beer consumption hasn't been growing in line with other products and the reason "is the present excessively high beer prices and its relation to the prices of other alcoholic beverages."

This was due to taxation.

Beer consumption per capita increased by only 2.6 per cent between 1952 and 1961, said the brief. In that period consumer expenditure on beer increased 34.4 per cent while it rose 61.5 per cent on other alcoholic beverages and 65.6 per cent on overall expenditures.

If the government removed its special taxes and duties from beer, the selling price could be dropped by 25 per cent, the commission was told. "This would be the case if beer were considered a normal commodity and not subject to special taxes."

The submission said Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures show that the brewing industry makes up 1.436 per cent of Canada's total industry. Yet, in 1961-62, the brewing industry contributed eight per cent of all the sales and excise taxes collected by the government.

'CARRIES BIGGEST LOAD'

"In other words, the brewing industry carries a sales and excise tax burden which is almost six times as large as its relative weight to total industrial production."

The association said the industry also had difficulty with the administration of the federal sales tax, applied on the manufacturers' selling price. Problems arose because brewers sell to customers at different stages in the distribution process and there is no way of equalizing the tax base.

Other problems arose in the paying of excise duty, which must be paid each Monday on supplies that are in an early stage of production. Sometimes "the breweries are compelled to pay out large sums of money, on the average some six weeks in advance of any possible sale of the product." In 1962, the industry had a total of $12,000,000 tied up in tax-paid inventories, and the interest burden on this was $600,000.

The brief also complained about the fact that excise duty is not allowed as a deduction in the computation of federal sales tax, "thus creating a tax-on-tax inequity."

In asking that the tax burden of the brewing industry be brought more in line with other segments of the Canadian economy, the brief also said that a system should be worked out whereby the tax base is the same in all provinces.

Police Back Down On Liquor Seizure

VANCOUVER (CP)—City police were advised Wednesday that they seized $1,300 of liquor on "extremely shaky" ground. So they took it back.

'Vancouver Disappoints Canada'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Alvin Hamilton, former minister of agriculture, said Wednesday that Vancouver is a failure as a port, and a tremendous disappointment to the interior of Canada.

He said the city lacks leadership, and he's going to spend several days here "trying to stir things up."

Mr. Hamilton charged last week that Vancouver had failed to provide adequate facilities to handle wheat shipments. He spoke of a hodge-podge of inefficiency.

He suggested an overall land-use plan for the Greater Vancouver area, including drainage of delta lands to the south and direction of further real estate expansion "up on those mountains" to the north.

CANADIAN LAUNCHED

The Royal William, 182-foot wooden paddle-wheeler launched at Quebec City in 1831, became the first British steamship to enter a U.S. port in 1833.

And a cheer went up at the hotel where the province's truck loggers are holding a convention.

Detectives seized the hard liquor and beer Tuesday as it was being unloaded at the hotel, bound for 15 hospitality rooms operated by companies taking part in the convention.

Deputy Chief Gordon Ambrose said the seizure followed a complaint by a liquor vendor under a section of the Liquor Control Act.

EXTREMELY SHAKY

This reads that no person shall canvass for, solicit, receive or take orders for purchase or sale of liquor, or act as agent for purchase or sale of liquor.

A spokesman for the police dry squad said:

"The section appears clear. But the city prosecutor's office advised us that there were cases in the past which would indicate our case—with the evidence we have—would be extremely shaky."

"We were advised we wouldn't be successful in a prosecution."

Deputy Ambrose hinted that the vendor's allegations might have been borne out "if the liquor had reached a further stage on its distribution."

Oak Bay Cuts Works Budget

Oak Bay public works committee took a long hard look at the capital works budget Tuesday night in an attempt to sort out the necessities from the things "that would be nice".

The proposed $170,000 budget, up $37,000 over last year, included $18,000 for park projects, which was shelved. This left a budget of $152,000 to be recommended to the council.

A winter works program totaling $90,800, less $19,000 in grants, was approved. This included $24,000 for the Oak Bay Marina car park which will give the municipality an additional two acres of land when completed.

The largest item was $39,000 for the extension and replacement of water mains.

NOT SO GOOD

Municipal engineer Geoffrey White said the council was told six years ago the water system in the municipality was in good shape, but this is not so.

On many short streets there are still two-inch galvanized pipes that need replacing.

After reviewing the proposed budget, newly-elected councillor Peter Lovric said:

"There appears to be many things that are necessary and some things that would be nice, but in order to provide both there is a compromise on the necessities. Why don't we just get busy and do the things that need to be done?"

It was estimated it would take $3,000,000 to put Oak Bay in tip-top shape.

NEED HELP

"If the provincial government would give us our fair share of the gas tax then we wouldn't have these problems," chairman Fred Robinson said.

The committee considered an $18,000 pavilion in Windsor Park as one of the things that would be "nice".

The pavilion was to provide shower facilities for the rugby and soccer players.

Coun. Robinson said: "I don't see why they can't go home and take a shower."

FAMED TROMBONIST whose walling notes and moaning voice spelled the blues to jazz fans for more than 30 years, Jack Teagarden, 58, was found dead in his motel room in New Orleans Wednesday. ## Employee Of Museum 'Buys' Relic

VANCOUVER (CP)—A museum employee pledged his savings so the city museum could obtain a rare Indian relic that American collectors were seeking, it was disclosed Wednesday.

A three-piece giant potlatch bowl carved 60 years ago by the late Mungo Martin, was found at upcoast Kingcome Inlet by a commercial firm that paid cash on the spot.

The firm offered the bowl to the city museum for $1,500, the basic cost plus transportation, but museum officials turned down the offer because the budget for acquisitions was only $240—and that was spent some time ago.

An unidentified employee pledged $1,500 from his personal savings if the museum could find some way of raising the money in the future. The Art, Historical and Scientific Association of Vancouver guaranteed payment and gave the bowl to the city free.

Robert Drake, curator of the museum, said the bowl is an irreplaceable example of the ancient art of the Kwakiutl Indian tribe. U.S. collectors had offered $4,500, and more offers were coming in, he said.

Canada, U.S. Disagree On Trade, Tariff Policy

By HAROLD MORRISON
WASHINGTON (CP)—Canadian parliamentarians have rejected the argument of U.S. legislators who want the Western world to restrict credit sales to the Soviet Union and other Communist countries.

They also split with Americans on the need for a formal trade embargo on Cuba and Red China and said they didn't share U.S. enthusiasm for wholesale tariff cutting planned under the Kennedy round of world tariff bargaining.

The seventh Canada-U.S. inter-parliamentary conference ended Tuesday with a press conference and confidential summary. The 24 Canadian parliamentarians and their wives will tour the Cape Kennedy, Fla., missile base before returning to Ottawa Sunday.

Senator George Aiken, Vermont Republican who heads the U.S. Senate group, described the meeting as the most interesting and most fruitful so far. Canadian Senate Speaker Maurice Bourget told reporters there were general areas of agreement, though "in certain items, there was a difference of opinion."

The next meeting will take place in Canada next summer.

DISAGREE ON TRADE

In one summary, to be made public in Congress and Parliament later, delegates said the U.S. view that a formal embargo should be maintained on trade with Cuba and Red China.

The Americans stressed the need for limiting credit to the Russians and Chinese to force them to divert military and other funds for the import of food and other essentials. But the Canadians expressed the belief that, with the exception of strategic goods, there should be no East-West trade discrimination.

Bourget noted Canada has a big trade deficit with the U.S. and argued that Canada must trade with the Communists to help narrow this deficit.

Alan Macnaughton, Canadian Commons Speaker, said there are advantages in keeping trade channels open with Red China, but he doubted Canada would recognize the Communist government until the U.S. is ready to do so.

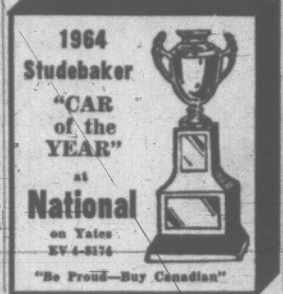

Touching on Latin-American problems, Macnaughton said he believes the Canadian government is moving towards a decision on the question of seeking membership in the Organization of American States.

Mirza Pack of Raymond, Alta., was awarded $16,511.59 after his bulls had to be destroyed when they became partially paralyzed. They had been sprayed for insects by the county of Warner agricultural services.

The action was heard in the Alberta Supreme Court last March and the county and chemical firm were found liable. An appeal was heard in October. The decision by the appellate division was unanimous.

Insect Spray Blamed for Bulls' Deaths

LETHBRIDGE (CP)—In a reserved decision handed down Wednesday the Appellate division of the Alberta Supreme Court upheld an earlier ruling the Oliver Chemical Company (Lethbridge) Limited and the county of Warner were liable for damages after 47 bulls were poisoned by a chemical.

WILLISTON TO SIGN COLUMBIA AGREEMENT

Water Resources Minister Ray Williston will go to Washington next Wednesday to sign for B.C. the new international agreement on Columbia River development.

Premier Bennett, who was invited by Prime Minister Pearson, declined because the provincial legislature opens the next day.

The agreement will be formally adopted at a meeting between Mr. Pearson and President Johnson.

Details will be made public at that time.

U.S. Sells Rice to Russia
WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. commerce department authorized Wednesday the first sale of rice—$7,500,000 worth—to Russia since U.S. policy was changed a few months ago to permit large sales of commodities to Iron Curtain countries. The department also issued a new export licence for the sale of an additional $13,000,000 worth of wheat to Russia.

Gap Between Faiths Remains Says Baptist

The real issues which separate the Roman Catholic Church from other churches are the so-called infallibility of the Pope, devotion to Mary and the Roman church's teaching authority, Rev. Dr. J. B. Rowell, pastor emeritus of Central Baptist Church, said Tuesday.

"There is also division over the Roman church's belief in the Mass, transubstantiation, and purgatory," Dr. Rowell told the Evangelical Pastors Fellowship at its annual meeting.

"Any who wish to join the ecumenical movement have every right to, but those who do not wish to must be accorded the same right to maintain and support their position."

He claimed that the Second Vatican Council in Rome has been forced to adjourn within a comparatively short time because of disagreement within the church of Rome itself.

"Far from there being unity within the Roman church, there is actually division between the traditionalist and progressive elements," he declared.

"And in spite of the statement by Pope Paul that the reforms of the council will go a long way towards closing the gap between our separated brethren and ourselves, no progress whatever has been made with the real issues which separate us."

Dr. Rowell quoted Cardinal Bea of the Society of Jesus as saying, "No concessions in dogma can be made by the church for the sake of Christian unity" and Bishop Remi De Roo of Victoria as stating "Catholics will not change their religion, as some seem to think. The teachings of the church will always remain the same."

"What this means," Dr. Rowell said, "is that if church union fails it will be the fault of the Protestants. But it will actually be the responsibility of Rome itself."

Dr. Rowell said the proposals made by the late Pope John XXIII were much the same as those placed before the first Vatican council in 1870—decentralization, reducing the Roman See to its ancient limits and restoring to the episcopate the privileges that have been withdrawn by Rome.

Rev. Theodore Chapman was re-elected chairman of the Evangelical Pastors Fellowship for a third term; Rev. J. H. James was elected vice-chairman and Rev. M. L. Moorehouse, secretary-treasurer.

Zanzibar Socialist 'But Not Like Cuba'

ZANZIBAR (AP)—Foreign Minister Abdul Rahman Mohammed Babu said today Zanzibar's new government will be socialist but will not necessarily follow the Cuban pattern.

In a roadside interview Babu said the island "quite possibly" will remain within the British Commonwealth.

"No one has spoken against the Commonwealth," he said. "The first task of the revolutionary government will be to formulate a policy."

"Of course it will be socialist like other East African countries but will not necessarily follow the example of Cuba."

Babu was on his way to a meeting on the revolutionary committee in the white-walled palace from which the rebels drove the island's sultan last Sunday.

Babu, who has been known for Communist sympathies, was accompanied by four armed lieutenants. One said he had been trained in Cuba along with "many" Zanzibaris. He shrugged and laughed when asked for specific numbers.

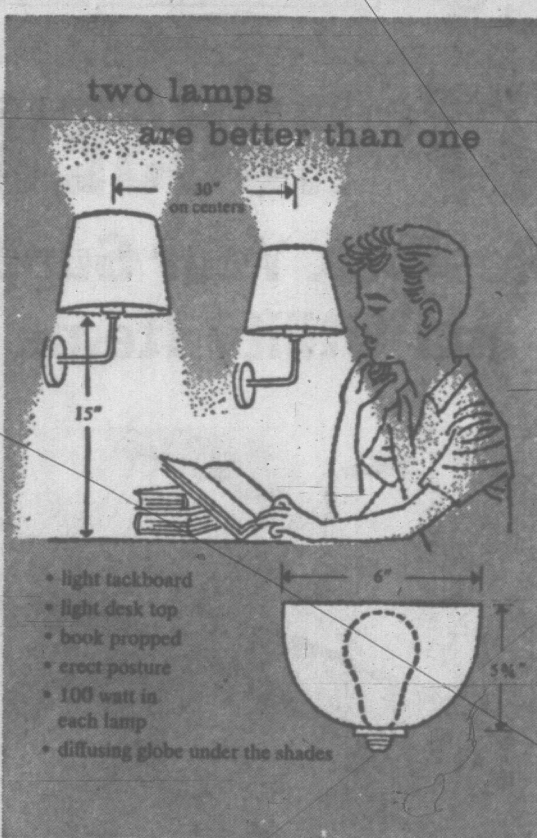

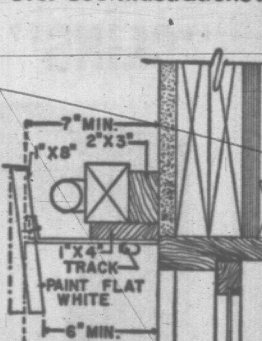

Several other Zanzibari rebels are believed to have been trained in Peking and a correspondent of Communist China's New China News Agency arrived here Jan. 10, two days before the revolution.

FEDERALISTS

UN Forms Basis For World Gov't

Parliamentarians of opposing political views agreed Wednesday night on the need for law and order on an international level.

Speaking at a meeting of the World Federalists, Liberal MP David Gross said: "I am like many other parliamentarians who do not know much about world federalism, but would like to know more."

"It is not something we are going to achieve in a year or two but it is important that we are thinking along these lines."

NO SOCREDS

Conservative MP George Chatterton, who is also vice-president of the parliamentary group of world federalists in Ottawa, spoke enthusiastically of the interest expressed by members of Parliament in the organization.

Forty to 50 parliamentarians have joined the non-political group but so far there is not a member from the Social Credit party, he said.

President of the World Federalists of Canada, Prof. C. S. Burchill, explained to an audience of 100 the concept of world federalism.

A peaceful world has long been the Utopian ideal of many societies, he said, and now it is practical to think of maintaining law and order on a world level.

The basis for world federalism was established with the charter for the United Nations in 1945.

"Our policy today is that we believe the UN should be expanded and strengthened to a body competent enough to define world law strong enough to apply it to international disputes," the president said.

Prof. Burchill sees Canada as a country with a particular role to play in the development of world law.

Canadians, he said, "have stature, a history free of exploitation and have never been offensively anti-Communist."

For these reasons suggestions made by Canada are more likely to be taken seriously.

He said world government did not have to lead to world tyranny and the only way the average citizen would be aware of world government would be "by a reduced tax bill and an extended expectancy of life."

The World Federalists urge a frank statement defining Canadian policy, and Canadian support for revision of the United Nations charter. They recommend that Canada take the lead in setting up inspection and control machinery for general disarmament.

New Magazine For Boy Scouts Out This Week

Hundreds of Boy Scouts and Cubs throughout Victoria will receive the first edition of "The Canadian Boy" magazine this week.

The magazine is published by the Boy Scouts of Canada and has a circulation of 300,000.

It is written for the 8-18 age group and contains feature articles, adventure stories, how-to-do-it tips and other items which appeal to youth.

Scout councils across Canada have contributed to the launching costs of the periodical.

Boys who are not members of the Scouting movement can subscribe to the magazine at $2 per year.

conducted on laborers and carpenters on a $1,000,000 project showed that the productive time amounted to 54.6 per cent of the time spent on the job. The non-productive time included personal delays, idle for no apparent reason, waiting for tools, material and equipment and walking from one point to another empty-handed.

Being idle amounted to 17.4 per cent of the time spent on the job, he said.

He added, however: "I think labor is honestly trying to do a day's work for a day's pay and the study is no reflection on them because I believe that the high incidence of idleness is our responsibility."

CORSICANS MARCH FOR LEUKEMIA

BASTIA, Corsica (Reuters) — Some 5,000 Corsicans demonstrated here Wednesday night for the immediate treatment of all leukemia victims on this island with a French healer's serum.

The marchers were led through the streets by the father of a four-year-old French boy who arrived here for treatment last week.

Meanwhile, a communique from local health officials stirred hopes that the healer, Gaston Naessens, would be able to start treating new patients soon. It said the French health ministry could not ban a therapeutic process "instituted by a doctor."

Naessens has no medical degree and announced Saturday he would not be able to treat any more cases for two years pending experiments with his serum by health authorities in Paris.

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

By now some modern Dickens in Toronto or Chicago must surely be working on a best seller entitled, "The Great Expectations."

The plot is not actually racy, but it is pretty juicy. Howie Young, hockey player, sometimes, is penalized by Vern Buffey, referee, sometimes, in a game at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Mr. Young takes his seat in the bin marked sin. Behind him assorted humans, sometimes, discuss his ancestry, shape of backbone and coloring in terms as unparliamentary as possible.

STAFFORD SMYTHE

... two to tango

Now to the climax... Mr. Young turns around slowly, fixes a beady stare on the box containing the parties vitally interested in him and then conducts a celebrated exhibition of spitting for height and distance.

In puritanical and anti-septic Toronto this caused quite a commotion. Mr. Stafford Smythe, at whom Mr. Young was aiming, was aghast. Mrs. Stafford Smythe was wet.

The Smythes were so annoyed they thought of getting their money back for the box seats. But they didn't. Staff's daddy, Connie, owns the joint. He's all heart. Lets his kids in free through a side door.

A few days later Mr. Smythe sent a letter to Clarence Campbell in Montreal. Smythe classified Mr. Young's language as "modern long-shoreman." Young's moist expression of contempt was casually mentioned.

A strong, wise president would have kept silent, probed the charges, and been impartial in his decision. Mr. Campbell has never been accused of having those characteristics.

Suggestions or complaints from players, press or public to him must be etched on bronze tablets and buried for five years before they are given consideration.

Watch Where You Spit, P-L-E-A-S-E!

He hung Young while investigating the charges. "May have to give Young life," was one of Campbell's cheeriest pre-judgments. Contempt of court? No, contempt of man.

There is no inclination to argue the penalty—five games. What Young did was bush. But doesn't it take two to tango? And if Young spat, did not Stafford Smythe spit... invective on the player?

Hockey fans consider the price they pay for admission entitles them to harass a player at his work, challenge his fortitude and even bounce a bottle off his skull.

It is not recalled that Young's hair was ever parted by flying glassware, but verbal barbs have been perforating his sensitive psyche lately.

Here is a young man with fine physical equipment and a schizophrenic approach to law and order that would tie psychiatrists in knots.

By practicing facial alterations and teeth removal without a licence in better saloons he has firmly embedded the name "Young" on readers' minds. Mr. Campbell and NHL referees read, too, and when Young commits ungraceful battery on the ice he is not a lowly hoodlum but a sort of Al Capone on skates.

Stafford Merits Some Attention...

No great tears would flow here if they took Mr. Young and heaved him aboard the next barge headed for Zanzibar. He has indulged in too much nonsense on and off the ice to be regarded as merely egocentric.

But he ought not to be the only individual clobbered by Mr. Campbell. Stafford Smythe, boy protagonist, cannot be suspended or fined but he is entitled to some attention.

A section of the NHL constitution prevents owners or officials of the home team from occupying seats within speaking, swearing or spitting range of the visiting team's players box.

But there has been no law against these same officials sitting adjacent to the penalty box where their courage is of Caesar and all that potash...

Mr. Campbell says he may do something about that. Surely, he will... as soon as the directors (Staff Smythe included) who pay his $30,000 salary give him permission.

Campbell could also have seized Smythe by the lapels and told him to button his zipper, no matter where he parks his peit.

This would have given the players something to think about. Now their thoughts are... no, you don't—not in this family newspaper.

THAT'S THE WORD...

Watch 'Down Under' Runners

BY HUGH FULLERTON JR.
NEW YORK (AP) — Pancho Nurmi, the Finn who had the track world agog in the 1920s, expects great things of runners from Australia and New Zealand in the 1964 Tokyo Olympics.

And he doesn't think the Russians ever will be dominant in distance running. It's a matter of physique, training methods and living conditions as well as desire to win.

Nurmi, 66, who ran 53 or 54 indoor races in the United States in the 1920s and won most of them, is here for the first time since 1940 to attend sports dinners honoring old-time Olympic stars in Boston Jan. 21 and New York Jan. 23.

At a press conference, an interpreter relayed his words.

"For the 1,500 metres, Peter Snell of New Zealand would be my choice because of his condition," Nurmi said in discussing Olympic runners. "Michel Jazy of France might win."

ALSO LIKES BEATTY

For the 5,000 metres maybe Jazy, although your Jim Beatty has a good chance. For the 10,000 some East European or this new Australian (Ron Clarke who broke the world records for six miles and 10,000 metres last month).

Although runners from Iron Curtain countries have taken many distance records in recent years, Nurmi thinks Americans and Australians have great potential as runners "because they're taller and have longer muscles." What might hold them back is easy living conditions and a disinclination to train for distances.

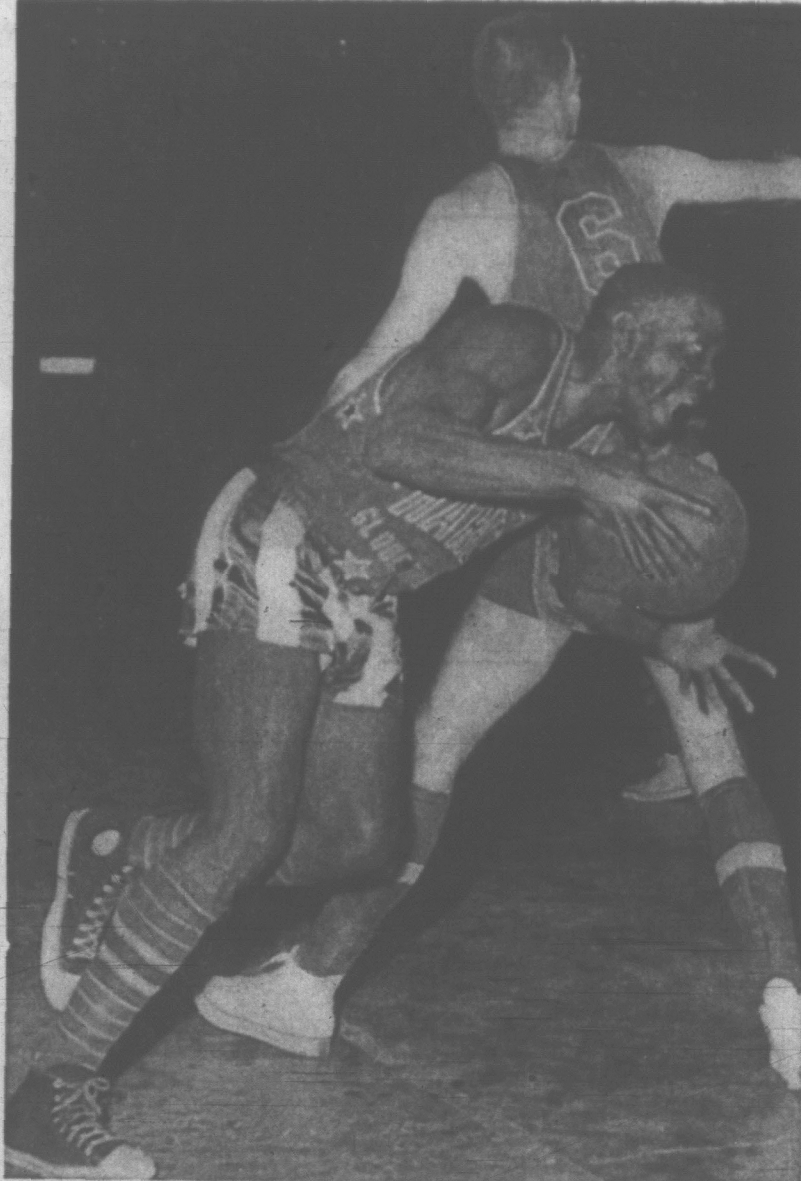

He is a great admirer of trainers Percy Cerruty of Australia and Arthur Lydiard of New Zealand, and thinks the weather in that part of the world favors runners.

"There's no winter there. They never have to run in the cold."

Nurmi never had a coach. He developed his own training methods and won the Olympic 10,000-metre title twice, the cross-country race twice, the 1,500 and 5,000 metres on the same day in the 1924 Paris Olympics and took a gold medal in the team race.

He once held world records at distances from a mile to 10 miles at the same time.

Smallest-Rookie Role Suits Jerry Just Fine

By DOUG PEDEEN

TIME OUT JERRY TROTTER

Vic High XV Opens Season On Right Foot

Esquimalt stepped out before it got started and Victoria High, as usual, got away on the right foot.

Those were the major developments as the Inter-High Senior Boys' Rugby League opened the door on another season Wednesday.

The Vics, getting a try from Barry Girard and a field goal from Brian White, shut out arch-rival Oak Bay 6-0 on the Vic grounds.

It was the only game played. Esquimalt, scheduled to go against University School, announced it would not field a team this season. A third scheduled match, between Mount View and Mt. Douglas, was postponed because of ground conditions.

RACE RESULTS ON PAGE 26

'Give Top Value and Make Friends'

"It was gratifying that Abe would trust me with such an important job," Jerry said, "because I know how fathers hate to see sons come in and botch up their business. He's been making a success of it for 38 years and I come in with new ideas, yet he usually lets me do what I want. He goes by results."

"But there is one bit of advice I'll never forget. 'We're not a one-night-stand outfit,' he told me. 'You don't have to make money the first time you go into a town. You give the people top value, make friends and make money the years when you come back.'"

TROUBLE WITH FLOOR

The Trotters were operating in the Saperstein tradition Wednesday night. Despite a slippery concrete floor that greatly restricted their mobility, they worked hard to give the fans full value. They than not will be playing to packed stands.

Squinting at figures in the arena office and "trying to find out how we spend all this money," Jerry recalled he hadn't planned to join the Trotters when he graduated from college with a degree in accounting and training in physical education.

"Abe asked me what I was going to do and I told him I had a pretty good offer from an aircraft company," Jerry said. "He asked me how much the salary was and then said he'd match it if I went to work for him."

After starting out last season as a publicity man, Jerry got a brief switch in jobs when one of the unit managers became ill. This year he was offered a full-time manager's post.

Combined with the vaudeville performers who accompany the hoop teams, it added up to excellent entertainment and few fans should have gone home disappointed.

LONG-SHOT ACCURACY

Leading the Globetrotters in comedy and points (24) was Bob "Showboat" Hall. Murphy Summons also tossed in considerable comedy along with some amazing dribbling. For straight basketball talent it was hard to match Trotter, who like Glenn Kennedy, Brady McCullom and Doug Hines.

Standouts for the Golden Gaters, who outclassed their rivals in long-shot accuracy, were little Wilbert Alexander and burly Bill Leedom, both of whom potted 25 points.

It was the kind of a show that makes Jerry Saperstein happy he's working with athletes instead of aircraft.

"I've always liked athletics," he said, "and I enjoy being with the Trotters. Because of my size, about the only sport I was able to compete in was boxing. I liked it, but I was pretty well outclassed in most of my bouts. This is the next best thing to competing."

"However, I'm two inches taller than my dad, which means we're getting up in the world."

That's only in inches. In basketball, the family can hardly climb higher. As a man whose word is his bond (none of the Globetrotters have signed contracts) and who has developed the game's biggest gate attraction, Abe Saperstein stands tall as anybody in the basketball business.

Andy's a Dandy To Have Around

Slick Ranger Ace Crushes Trade Rumors

By The Canadian Press

The New York Rangers, a couple of days ago, let Andy Bathgate know that he was not indispensable.

This must have made Andy painfully aware that the men in the front office felt he wasn't putting out his all, for the handsome dark-haired native of Winnipeg has been performing magnificently in the National Hockey League since.

In the NHL's only game, the Rangers shaded the Maple Leafs 5-4 before a crowd of 14,007 in Toronto Wednesday night and slick Andy collected three assists.

The Rangers scored the first five goals of the game and preserved the win in the face of a three-goal surge by the erratic Leafs in the final period.

GOALTENDING KEY

Jacques Plante's goaltending was a key factor. The Leafs, squandering an opportunity to break a second-place deadlock with Montreal Canadiens, end shot the Rangers 39-24.

Bathgate, a golfer and author as well as a hockey player, actually crushed the trade talk that developed between the Rangers and Maple Leafs by coming up with a big game against the Red Wings in Detroit last Sunday night.

Although the Rangers blew it 5-3, Andy collected a goal and assist and coach Red Sullivan said later his boy "played one of his best games of the season."

"Any and all deals we had pending have fallen through," said Red with finality.

THREE ASSISTS

In Toronto Wednesday night, Bathgate helped set up goals by Vic Hadfield (No. 11), Don McKenney (6) and defenceman Junior Langlois (4). Rod Gilbert (15) and Earl Ingarfield (9) got the other goals for the fifth-place Rangers.

Jim Pappin, a promising rookie, found the mark twice for the Leafs, his seventh and eighth goals of the campaign in a late start. Frank Mahovlich (18) and Bob Pulford (11) were the other Toronto scorers.

Toronto's Bob Baun was sitting out an interference penalty when Langlois beat Don Simmons. Pulford clicked on a breakaway while teammate Carl Brewer was in the penalty box.

Coach Punch Imlach of the Leafs yanked Simmons for a sixth attacker in the dying seconds but the bid for the tying goal was in vain.

OAKS, TOTEMS HOOP HOSTS

Oak Bay and Victoria High will play host to mainland clubs this weekend for a pair of high school basketball doubleheaders.

North Vancouver and West Vancouver will provide the opposition.

Friday at Oak Bay Senior High, Vic High Totems will play North Van at 7 and the Oaks will tackle West Van at 8:30.

Saturday at Vic High, it will be Oak Bay against North Van at 7 and Totems against West Van at 8:30.

Chualo Gets Shot At Folley Friday

TORONTO (CP) — George Chualo, who lost the Canadian heavyweight boxing title in 1960, takes on Zora Folley, sixth-ranked world heavyweight, in a bout in Cleveland Friday which will be televised nationally in the United States.

Folley has been among the top 10 world heavyweights for eight years. A win for Chualo would mean a giant stride in his comeback. Chualo, a Toronto native who fights out of Detroit, is ranked ninth.

Vince Bagnato, who along with his brother Joe promotes amateur boxing in Toronto, is in George's corner.

"This will be his toughest fight to date," said Vince Wednesday. "He's good and strong and has never been off his feet. If he keeps his hands up I think he can take Folley in seven rounds."

"Father time and strength should tell the tale. After all, Folley is 33 and George only 26."

Folley has 65 wins, six losses, including five by knockouts, three draws and 38 knockouts. Chualo, who has never been on the canvas, has won 25, lost seven and drawn twice.

JAYCEES PUSHING

'67 Grey Cup Game Sought By Calgary

CALGARY (CP) — The Calgary Junior Chamber of Commerce announced Wednesday it will ask the Canadian Football League to stage the 1967 Grey Cup game in Calgary.

George McMahon, president of the Calgary Stampede of the CFL, said the Junior Chamber had approached the club and had done a great deal of preliminary work. He said the club was not actively involved but would lend moral support to the Jaycees.

McMahon Stadium, which holds 20,000, could have 8,000 more seats placed in the end zones while another 5,000 could be placed along the track.

SEWSUNKER SEWGOLUM

Cross-Hander Bids for Fame

By JOHN MACLENNAN

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Sewsunker Papwa Sewgolum, a South African who plays golf in a way that would make a traditionalist shudder and who often has to struggle with the government to play at all in race-segregated South Africa, plans his first attacks on the American pro circuit this year.

Sewgolum, an Indian from Durban in Natal province, is classed as a non-white in South Africa. That limits his competitive activities sharply and makes playing difficult at best. He is head and shoulders above any other non-white golfer in this country and has given many white pros a run for their money.

Early this year he won the South African non-white open championship by 21 strokes with rounds of 71-72-70-75—288.

He has played in the British Open at St. Andrews and acquitted himself well although he didn't win any money. He thinks the toughness of the American circuit will be "just the right medicine" before he goes to Britain again in May.

Papwa's record is all the more remarkable because he has never had a golf lesson and he uses a cross-handed grip which he calls "natural." A right-handed player, he grips his clubs with his left hand below the right. When he drives he puts everything he has into it.

When he won the Natal Open in Durban, Papwa had to collect his prize in the rain because Indians were not allowed in the clubhouse.

He is known as a player with perfect golf manners. Papwa started in golf as a caddy when he was 13. His father had died, leaving him in charge of his mother and a younger brother.

"My stomach was my introduction to golf," he says, "and at 75 cents per week I wasn't able to fill it very often."

Eventually he began playing, and as he improved won numerous small non-European tournaments.

Papwa, he says, is just a nickname. "It means very roughly 'Little Boy.' He says Sewsunker Sewgolum doesn't mean anything in particular—it just happens to be his name.

Not Going to Change His Grip Now

"Nobody taught me how to hold a club so I hold it in the position that feels most comfortable," he says. "I've always held it like that and I'm not going to change now."

He has been invited to play in the World Tournament at Detroit in August, but one of the conditions is that he must play in the South African Open and Natal Open early this year to earn qualifying points. That won't be easy.

The 35-year-old Indian's golf career has been marked by a series of skirmishes with the government since he began playing at the age of 13.

When he won the 1963 South African Open in the Free State province, the government waived an old ordinance which prohibits Indians from staying in the province more than 24

NEW YORK—New Yorkers are being urged to do a good turn for Peter Falk.

If they run into him around B'way, they are asked, please go up to the guy and tell him he's the world's biggest heel. It'll give him confidence.

He's in training to play Stalin and he's not sure he's S.O.B. enough. He needs reassuring.

Peter's worked his way up in hoodlums, from minor hoods to the hoodlums' hoodlum, Stalin, and it's got him as nervous as a hood going to the chair.

"It's the hardest thing I ever tried to do," Peter said.

He'd been rehearsing Paddy Chayefsky's forthcoming show, "The Passion of Josef D."

"Stalin murdered millions... If he had to kill 5 million people, O.K., he was the most ruthless tyrant in world's history... by comparison, Hitler was a clown... Anyway, that's how Paddy sees him."

"Actors playing historical giants usually come out thin by comparison. I include myself. I played Napoleon, U.S. Grant, Castro, Stendahl, and a local boy, Abe Reles."

"All actors seem thin by comparison except Liz Taylor as Cleopatra. She didn't seem too thin."

Falk thinks he knows a little about Stalin, inasmuch as he made a movie in the U.S.S.R. last summer—he even hustled three Russian icons on the Russian black market and now has them at his Hollywood home.

"Their black market guys come right up to you on the street and ask in English if you want to do business. They come to your room. They put a pillow over the phone. They make an appointment to deliver the stuff under some bridge."

"I asked one guy, 'What about the police?' He said, 'I handle them with a pay-off.'"

Sort of like a capitalist country where money's important," concluded Peter Falk.

Sammy Davis was with his wife May at Danny's Hideaway and remarked, "When I got rich enough to live high on the hog, my rabbi wouldn't let me."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Pam Saunders, age 12, of Hopewell, Va., for her question:

What exactly are viruses?

Viruses are the bandits of the world of microbes. They cause at least 50% of the diseases that attack us, and no one can find anything kind to say about these midget germs. The wonder drugs cannot harm them, but medical science has other methods to protect us from some of the viruses. Our bodies also can defend themselves against some virus attacks.

Every virus is a parasite, unable to make a living for itself. It depends upon the living cell of a plant or animal. Some of the miniature bandits attack our bodies, others attack plants or microscopic bacteria. The size of a virus is measured in millimeters. The micron unit is one millionth part of a meter, and the millimeter is one thousandth part of a meter.

These midgets are too small to be seen through ordinary microscopes, but they can be photographed in the electron microscope. Hence, we know that some are shaped like sausages and some look like sticks. Others are round balls, and others look like squirming tadpoles. In size, they range from 15 to 450 millimeters—almost a million of them to the inch.

The average virus is a small wad of nucleic acids packed inside a thin shell of protein. Nucleic acids are the vital chemicals in all living cells. In our own bodies, the miraculous nucleic acids DNA and RNA direct the vital processes of life.

An invading virus can challenge the nucleic acids within a cell and force it to issue different directions. Instead of tending to its own duties, the invaded cell is forced to produce more viruses like the attacking parasite. These newcomers then spread to infect more cells. The body may be able to build tiny antibodies or other weapons against the teeming enemy, but this takes time.

Viruses Enemy of Animals

We can be infected with the mumps virus only once. The weapons the body builds against the first attack stay in the body for life. Vaccines are controlled doses of mild virus infections. They coax the body to prepare for deadly attacks by building defences in advance. Medical science offers us vaccines to protect us from the worst ravages of the polio and smallpox viruses.

Viruses are the cruel germs that cause rabies among wild and domesticated animals. If you have a dog, you will surely have him vaccinated to protect him from the misery of virus which causes distemper. Other viruses attack and destroy plants. The first virus to be discovered was the tobacco mosaic which destroys the leaves of the tobacco plant with rashes of withered brown spots.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book globe to Jon Anton Auer, age 15, of Wichita, Kan., for his question:

How big is an albatross?

There are about a dozen species of albatross, and all of them are lonely ocean travelers. The giant of the family is the wandering albatross whose outstretched wings may measure 12 feet from tip to tip. He may be four and a half feet long from his sturdy yellow bill to his stumpy tail. He tips the scales at between 20 and 25 pounds. The long, white wings with their sooty black tips are only about 11 inches in width.

The lonely albatross is built for a life at sea, and he comes to the land only at nesting time. He can skim the water or soar aloft for hours. To rest, he sits on the waves like a bobbing cork. His food is in the water, and when hungry he uses his hooked, seven-inch bill to scoop up fishes, squids and scraps from passing ships.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

Start Hunting Now For Holiday Job

By JACK HUTTON

Remember that popular song that begins: "Oh it's a long, long time from May to December, but the days grow short when you reach September?"

The writer of "September Song" could easily have named different months. Time flies by even more quickly after January—especially if you're hoping for a summer job.

I'll predict right now that within 10 or 11 weeks the majority of the best and most interesting summer jobs will be spoken for by early seekers.

Have you thought of working in a summer camp? If so, listen to Barry Lowes, co-author of "The Camp Counsellors' Book" published less than a year ago in Canada.

"Counsellors? I've hired almost all the staff I'll need for my own summer camp," he said. "And most camp directors I know are looking for counsellors right now."

Warm Spring

"Many young people," he added, "start thinking about summer camp work during those first warm days of spring. Unfortunately for them, directors were looking for volunteers back in the cold days of January and February."

How do you find out if someone has a job for you, especially if you have little or no experience in camping?

"Well, I'd suggest writing to one's provincial camping association for information," said Mr. Lowes, president of the Ontario Camping Association, until last September.

"I know the Ontario association helps in two ways. First, it advises a prospective counsellor. Secondly, it registers all applicants and sends out their names to all camp directors who can contact them directly."

Eager to Help

Any provincial association, Mr. Lowes added, is eager to help anyone interested in summer camps. The Quebec Camping Association, for example, runs a registry service similar to Ontario.

"If any one of your readers don't know the address of his or her provincial association, they can find out by writing the Canadian Camping Association, 4322 4A St. S.W., in Calgary, Alta.," said Mr. Lowes.

"But they may find directors are expecting more of their counsellors these days. I started as a counsellor when I was 13 years old and thought I did a good job. But I realize today how little I really knew."

Understand Young

Camp directors, said Mr. Lowes, used to look for young people who seemed to be good athletes. "That day is passing," he said. "Today the director is more interested in young people who understand and get along with children."

What about pay? "This varies since a great many camps still expect their counsellors to do volunteer work for nothing," said Mr. Lowes. "I think this is unfair when the same directors expect higher qualifications."

The 17-year-old will find a minimum of $75 or $100 at some camps, and may have a base salary of at least $200 by the time he is 19 years old. The important thing is that wages are increasing for counsellors and will get better."

Book Available

If you're interested, The Camp Counsellors' Book is published by Longman's Canada Ltd. and may be in your local library. If you want to buy it, a paperback edition costs $1.95.

Nineteen-year-old Serena Kottmeier, the only Canadian to win an honorable mention in Seventeen Magazine's 13th annual international art contest, isn't losing any perspective over the award.

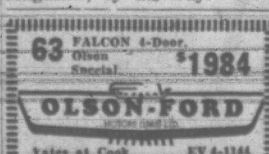

"I think I'll wait a bit before exhibiting," the Montreal artist told reporters. She is still attending Ecole des Beaux Arts as a third-year student in Montreal.

Painting Steadily

How early do you become serious about art to enter the award-winning category? Serena has been painting steadily since she was in Grade 8. She began painting in oils during Grade 9.

But is she now interested only in art? No. Serena is interested in making her own furniture, does some embroidery and studies her change every night in search of rare coins.

Watch for Serena's name. We'll be hearing more of her. Her painting, a study in yellow and brown oils, is in the January issue of Seventeen Magazine, by the way.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Pam Saunders, age 12, of Hopewell, Va., for her question:

What exactly are viruses?

Viruses are the bandits of the world of microbes. They cause at least 50 of the diseases that attack us, and no one can find anything kind to say about these midge germs. The wonder drugs cannot harm them, but medical science has other methods to protect us from some of the viruses. Our bodies also can defend themselves against some virus attacks.

Every virus is a parasite, unable to make a living for itself. It depends upon the living cell of a plant or animal. Some of the miniature bandits attack our bodies, others attack plants or microscopic bacteria. The size of a virus is measured in millimeters. The micron unit is one millionth part of a meter, and the millimeter is one thousandth part of a meter.

These midge germs are too small to be seen through ordinary microscopes, but they can be photographed in the electron microscope. Hence, we know that some are shaped like sausages and some look like sticks. Others are round balls, and others look like squirming tadpoles. In size, they range from 15 to 450 millimeters—almost a million of them to the inch.

The average virus is a small wad of nucleic acids packed inside a thin shell of protein. Nucleic acids are the vital chemicals in all living cells. In our own bodies, the miraculous nucleic acids DNA and RNA direct the vital processes of life.

An invading virus can challenge the nucleic acids within a cell and force it to issue different directions. Instead of tending to its own duties, the invaded cell is forced to produce more viruses like the attacking parasite. These newcomers then spread to infect more cells. The body may be able to build tiny antibodies or other weapons against the teeming enemy, but this takes time.

Viruses Enemy of Animals

We can be infected with the mumps virus only once. The weapons the body builds against the first attack stay in the body for life. Vaccines are controlled doses of mild virus infections. They coax the body to prepare for deadly attacks by building defences in advance. Medical science offers us vaccines to protect us from the worst ravages of the polio and smallpox viruses.

Viruses are the cruel germs that cause rabies among wild and domesticated animals. If you have a dog, you will surely have him vaccinated to protect him from the misery of virus which causes distemper. Other viruses attack and destroy plants. The first virus to be discovered was the tobacco mosaic which destroys the leaves of the tobacco plant with rashes of withered brown spots.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book globe to Jon Anton Auer, age 15, of Wichita, Kan., for his question:

How big is an albatross?

There are about a dozen species of albatross, and all of them are lonely ocean travelers. The giant of the family is the wandering albatross whose outstretched wings may measure 12 feet from tip to tip. He may be four and a half feet long from his sturdy yellow bill to his stumpy tail. He tips the scales at between 20 and 25 pounds. The long, white wings with their sooty black tips are only about 11 inches in width.

The lonely albatross is built for a life at sea, and he comes to the land only at nesting time. He can skim the water or soar aloft for hours. To rest, he sits on the waves like a bobbing cork. His food is in the water, and when hungry he uses his hooked, seven-inch bill to scoop up fishes, squids and scraps from passing ships.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book globe to Jon Anton Auer.

Painting Steadily

How early do you become serious about are to enter the award-winning category? Serena has been painting steadily since she was in Grade 8. She began painting in oils during Grade 9.

But is she now interested only in art? No. Serena is interested in making her own furniture, does some embroidery and studies her change every night in search of rare coins.

Watch for Serena's name. We'll be hearing more of her. Her painting, a study in yellow and brown oils, is in the January issue of Seventeen Magazine, by the way.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

Start Hunting Now For Holiday Job

By JACK HUTTON

Remember that popular song that begins: "Oh it's a long, long time from May to December, but the days grow short when you reach September?"

The writer of "September Song" could easily have named different months. Time flies by even more quickly after January—especially if you're hoping for a summer job.

I'll predict right now that within 10 or 11 weeks the majority of the best and most interesting summer jobs will be spoken for by early seekers.

Have you thought of working in a summer camp? If so, listen to Barry Lowes, co-author of "The Camp Counsellors' Book" published less than a year ago in Canada.

"Counsellors? I've hired almost all the staff I'll need for my own summer camp," he said. "And most camp directors I know are looking for counsellors right now."

Warm Spring

"Many young people," he added, "start thinking about summer camp work during those first warm days of spring. Unfortunately for them, directors were looking for volunteers back in the cold days of January and February."

How do you find out if someone has a job-for-you—especially if you have little or no experience in camping?

"Well, I'd suggest writing to one of provincial camping association for information," said Mr. Lowes, president of the Ontario Camping Association, until last September.

"I know the Ontario association helps in two ways. First, it advises a prospective counsellor. Secondly, it registers all applicants and sends out their names to all camp directors who can contact them directly."

Eager to Help

Any provincial association, Mr. Lowes added, is eager to help anyone interested in summer camps. The Quebec Camping Association, for example, runs a registry service similar to Ontario.

"If any one of your readers don't know the address of his or her provincial association, they can find out by writing the Canadian Camping Association, 4322 4A St. S.W., in Calgary, Alta," said Mr. Lowes.

"But they may find directors are expecting more of their counsellors these days. I started as a counsellor when I was 13 years old and thought I did a good job. But I realize today how little I really knew."

Understand Young

Camp directors, said Mr. Lowes, used to look for young people who seemed to be good athletes. "That day is passing," he said. "Today the director is more interested in young people who understand and get along with children."

What about pay? "This varies since a great many camps still expect their counsellors to do volunteer work for nothing," said Mr. Lowes. "I think this is unfair when the same directors expect higher qualifications."

"The 17-year-old will find a minimum of $75 or $100 at some camps, and may have a base salary of at least $200 by the time he is 19 years old. The important thing is that wages are increasing for counsellors and will get better."

Book Available

If you're interested, The Camp Counsellors' Book is published by Longman's Canada Ltd. and may be in your local library. If you want to buy it, a paperback edition costs $1.95.

Nineteen-year-old Serena Kottmeier, the only Canadian to win an honorable mention in Seventeen Magazine's 13th annual international art contest, isn't losing any perspective over the award.

"I think I'll wait a bit before exhibiting," the Montreal artist told reporters. She is still attending Ecole des Beaux Arts as a third-year student in Montreal.

Labor Chief Re-Elected To 8th Term

Victoria Labor Council president Robert Barrie went into his eighth term unopposed at the council's election meeting Wednesday night.

Alf. W. Toone rejoined him for the eighth time as secretary-treasurer.

Labor stalwart Percy Rayment, himself a past president, took the president's seat to install the slate of officers for 1964. He finished with: "I'm not going to make a speech. Get on with the job."

Other officers are: First vice-president E. T. Staley; second vice-president C. A. Peck; sgt.-at-arms Joe Brooks; credentials committee chairman J. A. Moffat; education John Nichol; legislation Fred Bevis; organization John Barbillon; political education W. Donnelly; public relations J. Chapman; unemployment Harry Anderson.

Meatcutters Reject Strike Bid

Meatcutters' union secretary George Johnston Wednesday night told Victoria Labor Council the union had rejected an offer by the Alberta Meat Market for strike settlement.

The strike is now in its 37th week.

Mr. Johnston said the offer had been previously rejected, and he believed it was placed before the union again last week as "a formality prior to having the minister (of labor) have management proposals placed before the employees for a vote."

He said that when strikers went out, it was 18 months past the date of the agreement signed with market proprietor John Williams.

The union wanted retroactive benefits, but management representatives turned this down.

Also, he said, the union's agreement was based on a pension plan which the management also rejected.

While the union has a 30-month contract coming into effect May 1 with other markets in the area, he said, Alberta management wants a one-year contract.

He said: "They have not yet indicated they are prepared to take back the people fired for having supported the union."

"After the union-management talks, we met with our members. They unanimously rejected the offer. There is no weakening."

Snow In Pakistan

KARACHI (Reuters)—West Pakistan shivered through a cold spell Wednesday which brought the first snow in 35 years to Rawalpindi, the capital. Other parts of the province had snow Tuesday for the first time in living memory.

• Contributions from employers and employees, with provision for contributions from the farmer and other self-employed.

• Full portability.

• Wage-related benefits based on best earnings prior to retirement.

• Eligibility for full pension at 65.

• For protection against loss of purchasing power due to inflation after retirement.

Revenue from council's end-of-year banquet was $972; with expenses totalling $746.23, leaving a surplus of $225.77. The amount was presented to the senior citizens' housing society.

MAYOR RATHIE JOINS RCN REFIT FIGHT

VANCOUVER (CP)—The mayor of Vancouver has joined his Victoria counterpart in urging the federal government to award contracts for modernizing three Pacific area navy destroyers to west coast shipyards.

Mayor Bill Rathie added his telegrams to those of Mayor R. B. Wilson of Victoria. Both mayors said there is an employment crisis in the shipbuilding industry on the west coast.

There were reports that only one of the three navy ships is to be modernized in a west coast shipyard, and that the other two would go east for the work, said the telegrams.

'PROPER' AMBULANCES SOUGHT

Victoria Labor Council will send a delegation to City Hall requesting a "proper" ambulance service modeled on the Saanich service.

Delegate Percy Rayment, proposing the move, said: "I think we're entitled to ask the city to do as much as Saanich has done."

Council will also seek further information on improvement of ambulance facilities.

Sightseeing Buses Face Parking Ban

A rush-hour ban on curbside parking by sightseeing busses in the downtown area is likely to be proclaimed by city council this year.

General agreement was indicated with a 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. ban by representatives of six sightseeing companies that met the city's advisory traffic committee Wednesday.

Committee chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney said no decisions were made at the meeting. But the consensus indicated that a recommendation for the ban likely will go to city council after the study is completed.

Arthur Mayse

Back when our young man had time for such endeavors, he used to take a lot of pleasure from keeping tropical fish. By degrees, though, his interest was diverted. The 10-gallon tank sat on its table, getting greener and greener, also smellier and smellier, until his mother decided she'd better do something about it.

As she studied this little sargossa sea, wondering how best to drain it, the weed-curtain parted.

Win found herself gazing into the bleary eyes and mournful face of a vast old angel fish, the aquarium's last survivor.

This posed a problem. She had assumed Ron's tank to be empty of life, and looked forward to retiring the clumsy, space-taking relic to the basement.

As a temporary solution, Win netted the castaway and decanted him, feebly flapping, into the bowl ruled by my tough pet goldfish.

Then she set to on the tank, bailing, uprooting and scouring until all was sparkling clean.

Meanwhile, Suki the goldfish hadn't taken kindly to his visitor. He kept butting the angel fish and nipping his fins. So Win transferred Suki to half a glass double boiler, where he sulked furiously.

A little desperate now, Win refilled the tropical fish tank with water she hoped would be the correct temperature, and dumped the angel back in.

When I got home, the tank occupied half a kitchen counter. Win perched on a stool, watching the angel, who although still more ghost than fish, had perked up considerably. With his dark stripes, he made a handsome spectacle as he cruised to and fro.

Handsome, Win observed, but lonely.

"I believe they keep tropical fish at the variety store," she said. "Next time we're in, perhaps we can pick one up to keep him company."

That same evening, she acquired a black mollie, a neat little fish about two inches long, with a sooty hide, a jeweled eye, and a pot belly. It happened the variety store was selling out its tropicals, so she also bought a neon tetra, a blue glint of a fish no longer than a close-clipped fingernail.

A baby guppy happened to slow away in the container. He was only about a third the size of the neon tetra, but Win was pleased with him.

"That gives me four fish, counting the angel," she said, watching her pets contentedly. "Ron has an air pump and some other things somewhere. I'm sure he'll lend them to me."

"Wasn't he planning to sell the tank?" I asked.

"Not any more," said Win. "He's going to lend me that, too."

These concessions, Ron learned about when he checked in soon after. Grumbling, he hunted out pump, air filter, heater, thermometer and some leftover fish food. It was by this time obvious that our queen bee had acquired . . . or been acquired by . . . a hobby.

The sad-eyed old angel fish now has 19 companions of various species, sizes, colors and personalities.

There's a barred tetra, a striped and black-kilted little Highlander of a fish who has chummed up with the cowardly angel, and guards him from attack by a green sword-tail.

Ron has brought home a platy, a catfish, a two-spot barb, a gourami, a marbled mollie and a snail.

He got such a fuss made over him for those contributions that I was forced to counter with a moon, a red swordtail, some more neon tetras, a lacey gourami with flagrant fins and graceful feelers, and a female guppy.

On the rare occasions when someone forgets his manners and eats somebody else, one or other of us hastens to provide a replacement.

It isn't that Win twists our arms, or even hints. She merely broods over her depleted garden of fishes, looking sad.

What she likes best about her hobby, she tells us, is that it isn't a bit expensive. "All it's cost me so far," she announced blandly to us the other night, "is one dollar and fifty-four cents!"

ASSORTMENT OF GOODS seized by police this morning make Saanich police station basement look like a department store. City police raided a Fairfield home this morning, seized goods valued at $20,000. A man has been charged in connection with a series of break-ins over the last year.

Victoria Daily Times

300-Unit Subdivision Planned Here

A land assembly program in North Saanich conducted by a Vancouver realty firm is believed connected to a 300-lot subdivision planned for this year in the Victoria area by the nation's biggest house-building firm.

Consolidated Building Corporation representative Gerry Rea, in Richmond said his Toronto-based firm is "definitely" seeking a sizeable chunk of land in this area now.

"They do their real estate buying from Toronto headquarters so I'm not absolutely certain that the options being taken north of the Sandown racetrack are ours but I'd be willing to bet they are," he said.

DEFINITE PLANS

"I know our company plans definitely to develop a 250 to 300-lot subdivision in the Victoria area this year.

"It's just a matter of getting the land as soon as possible and we'll start building because our surveys show there is a definite need for more housing near Victoria.

Consolidated Building Corporation is the largest subdivision developer in Canada and recently expanded its operations into New York. It has headquarters in Toronto and offices in most big cities.

The Christie Point Garden Apartments project was its first development in this area and it currently is developing a huge subdivision in Richmond.

2,500 LAST YEAR

"Last year we built close to 2,500 housing units and this year we plan to step that up to 4,000.

"One thousand of those houses would be in the west—that is Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary and Edmonton—and in addition we plan 450 apartment units in the west," said Mr. Rea.

Earlier, real estate agent R. H. Dennis of Pemberton Realty Corporation Ltd. in Vancouver refused to comment on reports he was obtaining options on a total of 750 acres between the race track and Wains Cross Road.

"It's all rumors and there's no comment," he said. "My principals are out-of-town people and I can't say anything."

But Mr. Rea and other Consolidated officials said the North Saanich land assembly was the right size for the contemplated development by their firm.

HARD LIFE AS YOUNGSTER

Busy Labor Head Wears Many Hats

By RAY SINCLAIR

If the Toone is familiar it must be the words that make it so.

Some Victorians know one word, some another, and some know them all.

Alderman, secretary-treasurer, director, member. They are all applicable to Alfred W. Toone throughout his working day.

Through a pressing schedule of daily activities, Alf Toone is known and liked by the "working man" of Victoria, whom he represents as secretary-treasurer of Victoria Labor Council.

Wednesday night they demonstrated their admiration by re-electing him for the eighth time. (See page 15.)

Since 1960, Alf Toone has represented Victoria-at-large as city alderman. He is the first labor man to do so.

COMMUNITY GROUPS

And because of his interest in the welfare of the people, he is director and member of many city organizations ranging from the Community Chest to the Senior Citizens' Housing Society.

He was born in England in 1916. His father was killed in the First World War, and he was orphaned in 1920, when his mother died shortly after their arrival in Edmonton.

Raised by older brothers Mark and Frank with another family, he set off on his own in 1932. For five years he worked on farms for nothing but his board, then became farm instructor at an Indian residential school at Gleichen, 60 miles east of Calgary. There he met Jean Campbell, another teacher.

"We married in 1938, and our son Terry was born at the school," he said.

Having holidayed in Victoria during his teaching years, Alf Toone decided to return "for good."

Police Check $500 Fire In Boathouse

City police are investigating a $500 fire that destroyed a 40-year-old boathouse at 1625 Hollywood Crescent.

The owner, Rev. R. E. S. Toms, told the Times this morning he believes the fire was deliberately set.

He said that the boathouse had been used for storing driftwood and bark for his fireplace. There was no boat in it.

Mrs. Toms noticed the fire about 7 p.m. when she went into the kitchen to dry the dishes after supper.

The whole thing was a sheet of flame then," said Mr. Toms.

Part of the boathouse was made of huge logs, said Mr. Toms, and "it was a very solid sort of boathouse."

It was built over 40 years ago, said Mr. Toms, and was the subject of a controversy some years ago when the city tried to have it removed.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Lions Club: Noon, Empress Hotel; Ken Malt-house, manager, All-Canada Federation. "The Insurance View of Traffic Accidents."

100 Trees Offered As Gift

A Canadian trust company today offered city council $800 for planting of 100 trees, with no strings attached.

Similar gifts are being offered to 30 Canadian communities by The Canada Trust Company-Huron & Erie Mortgage Corporation as its method of celebrating its 100th anniversary.

Disclaiming any desire for recognition in the way of plaques, company head J. A. Taylor wrote:

"We will be wholly satisfied if the trees contribute to civic beautification and the pleasure of your citizens."

He said the company would underwrite the cost of the 100 trees but the city would have to plant and maintain them.

The company would leave choice of species "either shade or ornamental" to the city and "they may be planted in any location you wish, singly or in groves."

The offer was expected to be accepted with alacrity by city council because it would work in well with the continuous tree-planting program for residential and downtown streets.

Bridge Too Low, Load Too High

A low bridge scraped a huge log from the load of a logging truck and spilled it into a ditch Wednesday night.

The truck driver told police he hadn't thought about the 13' 5" clearance at the railway bridge at the foot of Four Mile Hill on Highway 1-A.

A small piece of the log was ripped off and dented an oncoming car, but the log rolled into the ditch on the truck's side of the road.

"I decided that I should live a useful life or none at all. I just kept going. I don't run for buses, or anything like that."

Living on Moss Street with wife Jean and daughter Susan Jean Elizabeth, a 15-year-old Vic High student, Alf Toone speaks proudly of his family.

Terry, born in the hard days of Gleichen, is a 23-year-old correction officer in Vancouver Island's minimum security establishment. "I hope he'll come back and finish his degree," he added. His older brothers have also been successful.

"Frank is an optometrist, and Mark is a doctor," he said.

"I have quite enough to do too."

City, CPR Heads Open Skirmishing On Crystal Lease

Preliminary skirmishings between City Hall and the Canadian Pacific Railway's hotel division began Wednesday over future of the Crystal Garden.

A delegation of CPR officials visited Mayor R. B. Wilson's office to discuss the CPR's lease on the city-owned land which expires at the end of this year.

If a new lease is not negotiated, it is expected that the Crystal Garden would fall into the city's hands—a possibility that is considered a mixed blessing at City Hall.

However, it is unlikely that the city would agree to continue a tax exemption now included in the lease.

Loot Worth $20,000 Recovered

25-Year-Old Man Charged In City, Saanich Case

City police seized $20,000 worth of goods from a Fairfield home in an early morning raid today.

They also arrested a 25-year-old man.

Donald Champion, 182 Joseph, appeared in city police court this morning charged with breaking and entering, and possession of stolen goods.

Bail was set at $2,000, and the case was put over to Friday afternoon.

Det-Sgt. William Andrews told the Times today that this morning's raid climaxed a two-day investigation started by a tip to Cons. John Rickerby.

VARIED COLLECTION

Seized were cameras, power tools, two television sets, three tape recorders, a high fidelity phonograph, transistor radios, a tool chest, saws, drills, an electric planer, chisels, and other equipment, and a boat trailer.

"We believe this is the proceeds of several break-ins in the Saanich and Colwood areas," said Sgt. Andrews.

Some of the seized goods were reported stolen as much as a year ago, police said.

A truck was required to haul the goods from the Fairfield address to the Saanich police station, where it is stored in the basement.

SORTING GOODS

City detectives Lester Clark and Les Mottershead began the investigation for the city department, and Dets. Lorne Johnson and Ted James later were called in.

Police are presently sorting the seized goods and identifying items.

In court this morning, Mr. Champion told Magistrate William Ostler that he is married and has a family here.

He is a tall dark man, and in the dock this morning had his left forearm bandaged almost to the elbow.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett asked for substantial bail, and said that further charges against Champion are being considered.

ESQUIMALT MAN GUILTY OF FORGERY

An Esquimalt man pleaded guilty to eight forgery charges in Esquimalt police court this morning.

Norman Keith Loadman, whose record goes back to 1943, was charged with a series of cheque forgeries that netted him a total of about $115.

"I'm an alcoholic," he told the magistrate.

Cpl. Robert Duncan told the court that Loadman had written a series of counter cheques on an active account in a downtown bank.

The account holder didn't know his funds were being tapped until the last two counter cheques bounced and were referred to him for payment.

Loadman is to be sentenced Friday morning.

'NEVER HEARD OF HIM'

Police Commission Member 'Mystery'

By FRANK BUTTER

A man of mystery has been appointed to Victoria's police commission.

His name is John G. Martin. Police and city officials do not know him. They do not know anything about him.

The appointment was made by a provincial cabinet order this week.

"Never heard of him," said the attorney-general's department.

"No idea who he is," said city hall.

"Nobody seems to know him," said city police.

All three take some interest in the appointment of police commissioners, usually men who have some status in community affairs, or a record of experience in law enforcement.

MAYOR IN DARK

But Mayor R. B. Wilson knows nothing about Mr. Martin.

Police Chief John Gregory doesn't know him.

Nor does Attorney-General Robert Bonner, according to officials in his department.

The one man who should be "quite ill" at home and his telephone number is unlisted. He is Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black.

Police commission appointments are made under the Municipal Act, although in practice the attorney-general's department usually has a big say.

This time the appointment was made while Mr. Bonner and his deputy minister were away in Ottawa.

ONE LISTING

Nobody lower down in the department knows who Mr. Martin is.

The only John G. Martin listed in the Victoria directory lives at Larkdowne, which is in Oak Bay.

He is listed as "retired".

But he apparently is out of town as there has been no answer to his telephone for two days.

The only thing anyone does know about the appointment is that Mr. Martin replaces commissioner William J. Hamilton, whose term expired Dec. 31.

Two other local police commissioners, whose identity is known, were appointed by the cabinet.

Lionel C. Speller, 3628 Saanich Rd., an ambulance driver at Veterans Hospital, is named to the Saanich Police Commission.

He replaces Councillor Leslie Passmore.

Central Saanich Councillor Percy F. Warren replaces V. J. Wood, who resigned from the Central Saanich Commission because of ill health.

Ask The Times

Q. If two people have a joint account in the bank, should either one pass away can the partner in that account draw the money without consulting anyone? T.C.

A. The "partner" can withdraw up to $1,500 of a joint account before the will of the deceased is probated.

Q. I would like to know how many streets, avenues, roads, etc., there are in all of Victoria, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Saanich. L.N.

A. About 1,550.

Q. When will they be playing the F.A. Cup match in Wembley Stadium? T.D.

A. The Football Association Cup game will be played May 2.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve cup problems or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer. Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor, Questions and Answers will be published daily.

Topics of the Day

Besant Lodge of the Theosophical Society will meet Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at 732 Cormorant Street to hear the tape, "The Psychology of Happiness."

Esquimalt residents wishing to appeal property assessments for the 1964 tax roll must file appeals at the municipal hall no later than Friday. Court of revision will sit at the hall Feb. 5.

Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association will hold its annual meeting tonight at 8 in the cafeteria of the Douglas Building.

A program of slides will follow the business meeting.

Albert Goodall, 2731 Jacklin Road, Langford, was elected president of Branch No. 60, Old Age Pensioners Organization, at its annual meeting Monday.

Also named to the group's executive were Thomas Pugh, first vice-president; Mrs. Margaret Muir, second vice-president; Mrs. Jane Dale, secretary, and James Ferris, treasurer.

In his annual report, past president Adam Glover said the highlights of his term were a variety concert by a Silver Threads group and the pensioners' annual turkey dinner at Christmas.

A 33-year-old logger injured when his Landrover went out of control Monday at the south end of Ocean Boulevard on the Esquimalt Lagoon is in fair condition today.

Jim Henderson, of 101 Lagoon Road, was returning home about 7:30 p.m. when his vehicle crashed through a hedge and somersaulted down an embankment two blocks from home.

The injured man was taken home the night of the accident and on Tuesday morning he was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital by ambulance, where his condition is reported to be fair. He is understood to have suffered a fractured skull.

A 40-man RCAF study group with Air Commodore R. C. Weston of Victoria as chairman began meetings in Vancouver Wednesday to consider problems arising out of the shift of search and rescue aircraft from Vancouver to Comox.

The shift is part of several defence economy moves affecting the air force on this coast being discussed by the groups.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Tools for the Handyman
On Special In This Shop

By PENNY SAVER

If you live in a typical Canadian home, your man likely fancies himself to be the general handyman and goes about trying to fix everything from a leaky faucet to a crack in the plaster.

Well, let him enjoy his importance, but, first supply him with proper tools. One shop I know is now selling over a hundred various tools at 99 cents each.

Most common tool used by do-it-yourself handymen is a screw driver, and one of the latest type is that which goes around corners.

These are made with a metal coil just above the handle which enables them to be bent around said corners or over curves.

Tweezer sets for delicate jobs are also priced at 99 cents each. They contain a reverse action tweezer which acts as a miniature vice for holding small objects without finger pressure; the light tension fine point one is ideal for holding small objects under pressure and for seating small screws and bolts. For general all-purpose jobs, there's a heavy duty, fine point one, or the mechanical blunt end type, and if a splinter of wood or steel ends up in your hand, set contains a high tension, fine point type to be used especially for taking it out.

Another handy gadget, priced at $1.49, is a pistol-grip screw driver which assures 45 per cent greater turning power than the ordinary hand type. It is made of hardened and tempered steel with a plastic, shock-proof, non-inflammable handle. A flick of the finger on the dial on top of the handle gives you three-way action.

Penny found something for the average homemaker in another shop. A new no-stick oven spray. It is not an oven cleaner, and does not prevent the oven from getting dirty. But, it does enable you to remove dirt and grease in less than half the time previously required.

Simply spray your oven and the next time you clean it you will marvel at the results. Price is $1.49 a can. Spray can also be used on the bottom of copper pans to prevent tarnishing.

Supply your handyman with proper tools, but call Penny first at 382-3131 for name of shop.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Words of Advice!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old boy and I have been wanting to quit school for over a year, but my parents won't let me. I hate school and I want to quit now and get a job. I failed two subjects last term, and know I won't do any better next time. My parents found out I was smoking and they ordered me to quit. I told them if they wouldn't let me quit school I wasn't going to quit smoking. My dad made a deal with me: he said if I quit smoking and continued with school, he'd buy me a car I wanted. I said okay. He got me the car and I really have been trying harder at school, but he caught me smoking. Well, he took the car away from me and I'm grounded until June. They said if I flunk anything I'll have to go to summer school. How can I get my parents to be more human?

MAD
DEAR MAD: I think your parents are superhuman. And far more generous than most parents would have been. You made a deal and welched on it.

BE SMART—

Let it rain; let it pour . . . and we have a cheerful friend who decided to do something to gussy up her umbrella. Her solution was to embroider her name on one section. And that's one way to get people to know you!

Work hard in school and quit feeling sorry for yourself.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I am overly sensitive because I've had grey hair since my mid-twenties, but I do not like to be called "grandma" by anyone except my own grandchildren. The moment I became a grandmother, everybody started calling me "grandma." Even people who hardly knew me well enough to call me anything but "Mrs. —" started calling me "grandma." I resent it. While waiting in my doctor's office, his nurse had the gall to say, "Come on, grandma, you're next." I am only 59 years old. Would I be out of line to correct these rude people? Or should I just sit there and burn?

"GRANDMA"
DEAR "GRANDMA": Many people are not aware that pet names (and that's what they are) are not always appreciated. So I suggest that you tell whoever incurs your displeasure by calling you "grandma" exactly how you feel about it. It takes nerve to be outspoken. But it's better than burning.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Sensitive Skin Demands
Special Creams and Care

I have a reader's letter before me which says:

"I am sure there are many readers like myself who would be most grateful for an article about super-sensitive skin."

"I am allergic to perfumes, rouge, powder, soap, and most cosmetics. You will probably say, 'See a dermatologist.' I did, and his only advice was to avoid such things. I am in my 30s with a white skin.

Without make-up I look like a ghost and 40-ish. If I wear make-up I look flushed and my skin is irritated with a dry rash.

"I have learned one trick which may help others with allergies. I make a very tiny pocket in my bra for a dab of perfume or cotton. This keeps the perfume off my skin."

This reader also said that she knows that there is a cosmetic for sensitive skins available, but that she does not like the heavy powders or waxy consistency of the creams.

I am sure that many of my readers may not know that there is cosmetic help for the woman who is allergic to the usual cosmetics. There is not one company, there are several, which specialize in these cosmetics. Some of them are splendid. I have tried them.

Even if you do not have a real allergy, but have a sensitive skin, you should give your outer coating special care. This type of complexion usually fares best with cleansing creams rather than the usual soaps. If you use a cleansing cream properly it does the job beautifully. Massage the cream in gently and then remove it with tissues. Do this again. Afterwards remove any remaining cream with a warm, wet washcloth.

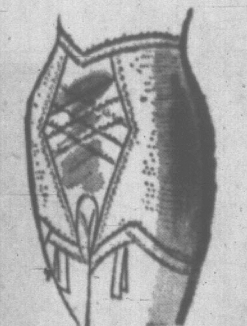

The sensitive skin usually has a tendency toward dryness. Therefore regular lubrication with an oily cream, or an oil, is especially important.

GUIDES, BROWNIES

Juan de Fuca Division Tea

Mrs. George R. Pearkes, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, will officially open the annual tea, sponsored by Guides and Brownies of the Juan de Fuca Division, on Saturday at 2 p.m. in Hudson's Bay Douglas Room.

The division includes Langford, Colwood, Sooke, Belmont Park, Happy Valley and Metchosis districts.

Tea will continue until 4:30 p.m. Adult and children's tickets are available from any Guide or Brownie in the division, or at the door. All tickets will qualify for a door prize.

There will be stalls of home baking and candy and Guides of First Sooke Company will entertain with Scandinavian dancing.

Proceeds will go toward new camping equipment, to assist in sending Guides to international camps and Brownies on pack holidays; to help with essentials for Guide and Brownie training programs and to help care for and educate two little girl orphans in India, adopted by the Juan de Fuca Division.

Alix's Baby Likely First

LONDON (Reuters)—Princess Alexandra is likely to be the first of the Royal mothers to have their babies this year, it was learned this week.

The 27-year-old princess and her Scottish businessman-husband Angus Ogilvy expect their first child about the end of February, Buckingham Palace announced.

The baby will be born at their London home—Thatched House Lodge, in Richmond Park—where the couple have lived since their return from a honeymoon last June.

If Princess Alexandra's child is born before the baby-Queen Elizabeth expects early this year, it will be 13th in the line of succession. With the arrival of Queen Elizabeth's baby it will drop to 14th place.

Other royal mothers expecting babies this year are Princess Margaret and the Duchess of Kent.

Mrs. Baird Heads Fairfield United Church Women

Mrs. R. Baird was elected president of the Fairfield United Church women at a recent meeting.

Other officers are, Mrs. R. Osland, first vice-president; Mrs. F. J. Keifer, second; Mrs. J. Grier, treasurer; Mrs. M. W. Sedgley, secretary; Miss M. Staines, corresponding secretary. Mrs. H. H. Youson is past president.

Conveners of standing committees were named as follows: Christian stewardship, Mrs. O. M. Barker; Christian citizenship, Mrs. J. McCammon; community friendship, Mrs. Youson; Christian education, Mrs. E. Darling; literature communication, Mrs. P. Fawcett; program, Mrs. W. Ireland; membership, Mrs. R. Tannahill; nominations, Mrs. J. Houston; social, Mrs. E. B. Henderson; kitchen, Mrs. A. Irwin; press and publicity, Mrs. C. J. Horwood; manse, Mrs. B. C. Bracewell; supply, Mrs. G. A. Pole.

Unit leaders are Mrs. Keifer, Mrs. Osland, Mrs. W. Meacham, Mrs. M. J. Kendall, Mrs. H. Carlyle, Mrs. Pole and Mrs. R. Anderson.

Officers were installed last Sunday at the morning service in the church, by Dr. H. K. Johnston.

Dinner Hosts

Rear-Admiral J. M. Landymore and Mrs. Landymore entertained Wednesday evening with a small dinner party at Admiral's House, HMC Dockyard. Covers were laid for 14.

Guild Raises $750 in Year

Reports given at annual meeting of the Woman's Guild of St. David's Church-by-the-Sea, showed $750 raised during the year. Main money-making events were a tea and plant sale and a bazaar. Members also assisted with the harvest supper and prepared and served a dinner to men's groups.

Rev. H. Gordon presided during an election that returned the following officers for another year: Mrs. K. M. Lewis, president; Mrs. J. M. Mitchell, secretary; and Mrs. A. P. Williams, treasurer. During the meeting Mrs. H. Gallop, president of the women's auxiliary, spoke of the Women's World Day of Prayer to be held February 14. Tea was served by Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. H. Walker, Mrs. T. Anderson and Mrs. Gallop.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Allan Pendray of Victoria found their cabin filled with "bon voyage" flowers and gifts from relatives and friends, prior to their sailing from San Francisco last Sunday (via Los Angeles) in the S.S. Mariposa for the South Pacific, on a 42-day cruise. Ports of call include Bora Bora, Papeete, Raiatea, Auckland, Sydney, Noumea, Suva, Niuafo'ou (Tonga Island), Pago Pago and Honolulu.

She's 100 But Still Has an Eye for Clothes

By PAT DUFOUR

Does a woman ever lose her interest in clothes? If Mrs. C. H. Mabey is any criterion, it's very unlikely!

Although she recently celebrated her 100th birthday, Mrs. Mabey is extremely fastidious about her dress and adores wearing good jewelry.

She also enjoys a good party. None of the 150 guests that attended her birthday get-together had more fun than she did!

Dressed in a floor-length hostess gown of mauve peau de soie that had cuffs of delicate lace, Mrs. Mabey obviously relished every moment.

Both she and her husband were born and brought up in England, coming to Saanich more than 50 years ago. Until Mr. Mabey's death four years ago, this tiny woman managed her own household.

She now lives with her daughter, Mrs. G. A. Vantreigh in a large, gracious home on Tyndall Avenue. There are three other children, four grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Although Mrs. Mabey has relinquished the chore of running a home, she still takes a lively interest in everything around her. She's impatiently waiting for warmer weather so she can walk around the garden, "pull up a few weeds" and admire the flowers she loves so much.

Her final act before going to bed each evening is to check that the front door is securely locked.

"I sleep on the ground floor and I want to be sure that everything's secure."

Chatting with her, it's hard to realize that Mrs. Mabey has lived in Canada so long. There's an old-world exquisiteness in her manner and her word pictures of the "old country" are as vivid as yesterday.

Her childhood was spent in Northamptonshire and, oddly enough, her keenest memories of the village churchyard.

"When we were small, we did most of our playing there."

The early years of her married life were spent as chateaux of a large house, built on the cliffs at Bournemouth.

"We always had lots of people staying with us because we had a large home with plenty of room and everyone loves to go to Bournemouth! I remember the beautiful gardens and the sight of invalids taking the air in donkey-drawn carriages."

An accomplished pianist, Mrs. Mabey was an enthusiastic member of the seaside town's Lyric Club.

"We used to take over the theatre for a week each year and put on some wonderful shows."

LOVES TO SING

Her daughter reports that Mrs. Mabey still has a keen interest in music. "She'll sing for as long as an hour at a time. And, no matter what else is going on in the house, she never misses listening to her favorite concert hour (sponsored by Victoria Daily Times) on the radio each day."

Mrs. Mabey's face lights up as she recalls the yearly "tripping" by train to London for the pantomime. "The scenery was always beautiful—such wonderful productions! But the train ride home always seemed so much longer, after sitting in our theatre seats so long."

She also remembers with pleasure the boat trips to the Isle of Wight. "We always had season tickets and often used to go over for the day."

She and her husband farmed at Mt. Newton for years and she still attends the annual bazaar of St. Stephen's Church, where they worshipped.

Was the change from her English way of life difficult for Mrs. Mabey?

"Not really, the scenery here made me feel at home right away—it isn't that different."

Neither is Mrs. Mabey. She still retains her soft, correct accent and, to visit at tea time, is to be treated to all the graciousness of another era.

It's also a temptation to take reassuring glances at the scene outside the windows. It almost seems that one will hear the clatter of a donkey cart above the tinkle of the teacups!

Dressed in her mauve birthday gown, Mrs. C. H. Mabey is seen with the fan she loves to carry and a nosegay of violets, one of her favorite flowers.

Symphony Ball In February

Plans were discussed at a meeting of the Victoria Symphony Society Women's Committee for the annual Symphony Ball, to be held on February 21, in the Empress Hotel. The convenor is Mrs. J. A. Hutchison and tickets are in charge of Mrs. George Fayad.

Mrs. G. Neely reported to the meeting, held at the Lansdowne Road home of the committee president, Mrs. J. Barraclough, on a fashion show to be held afternoon and evening at the Sirocco on February 26. Fashions will be shown by the T. Eaton Company.

Three new members were welcomed, Mrs. Otto-Werner Mueller, Mrs. Shirley Cuppage and Mrs. B. S. Gingell.

FEMALE ORCHESTRA

BOSTON (AP)—Creation of a Boston women's symphony orchestra of 55 players was announced Wednesday by Mrs. Marjorie S. Sutcliffe, founder and manager of the new orchestra. She said Rouben Gregorian, co-founder of the Teheran Symphony Orchestra in Iran, will lead the group.

Pretty Knees Shock the Russians

MOSCOW (AP)—Western girls' knees are raising Russian eyebrows in Moscow.

And it's not only the Russian women who are complaining—the men are, too!

The trouble centres on a clash of customs: In the Soviet Union it is considered not polite or decent for a woman to show her knees.

Thus, you never—or almost never—see a Russian woman cross her legs in public.

No matter how gracefully a Western girl manages it, she invariably draws looks of astonishment and disapproval.

A young English girl who relaxed while sitting in a Moscow subway train caught a sharp reprimand from a well-covered Soviet matron.

The Russian woman leaned forward in her seat and told the girl, who was sitting opposite: "Uncross your legs—it is not decent to sit like that."

The girl did as she was told. "It's absurd," she said later. "You see women sprawled with their legs apart—most undignified and unladylike by our standards—and yet they object if you show a little knee."

The Russians have a passion for concealment—yet it has its contradictions. Russian women think nothing of going to the beach clad in panties and bra.

To prevent clashes with Soviet sensitivities, diplomatic diplomats have given their female employees some advice on what not to wear in Moscow.

Definitely out are: Very bright woolen stockings; tights; ski pants.

Old 'New Look' Shown In Rome

ROME (Reuters)—Buyers and reporters stared in astonishment Tuesday night as some dozen mannequins walked in with their legs hidden under long mid-calf hemlines to open the Italian spring-summer fashion show here.

The Fontana sisters of Rome went back 17 years to retrieve the old "new look" length introduced by Dior in 1947 and use it for their next year evening and cocktail dresses.

But most of the audience thought that the longer skirts idea was not likely to catch on.

A U.S. buyer said: "Long skirts are not becoming and tend to make women look older."

Most of Fontana's, including those for day wear which all kept the usual just-below-the-knee length, had a loose, straight-hanging silhouette with softly-marked waist.

GIRL GUIDES

Gold Cord—Wendy Diane Smith, a member of First Victoria Land Rangers, was presented with her gold cord by Mrs. H. A. Winnett, division commissioner for Fort Camosun division, at meeting held in the Pandora Avenue guide hall. Special guests were the recipient's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Smith. Also present for the ceremony was ranger lieutenant, Miss Evelyn Swanson.

No-Hostess Party

Forty co-workers and employees of B.C. Hydro recently entertained at a "no-hostess" shower in honor of Miss Betsy Harrison. Pink and white daisies centred the table. A white carnation corsage was presented to the guest of honor and pink carnations to her mother, Mrs. W. J. Sullivan.

Serving Wench Comes To Victoria After All

Press, radio and television—and just possibly downtown shoppers—will meet one of three British "serving wenches" to visit Canada next week.

Head wench Margot Dachy will arrive here at 11 a.m. Jan. 24 for a quick round of publicity interviews before heading back to Vancouver.

She will be joined by two other wenches Jan. 26 for a program of publicity activities including Elizabethan feasts in Western Canadian cities.

The British Travel Association, acknowledging a letter from Victoria Visitors' Bureau commissioner Alan Maclean, offered any help possible through the association's Vancouver office during Miss Dachy's visit.

Mr. Maclean had protested that the wenches—authentically costumed servers and singers to Britons at London's Elizabethan Room who are coming here to publicize Shakespeare's 400th anniversary—would miss the most British city in Canada.

New Italian Musical 'Melodic Panorama'

TORONTO (CP) — Rugantino, a Broadway-bound Italian musical using subtitles to interpret actors' lines and the lyrics, made its North American premiere here Wednesday night.

It will run to Feb. 1 and move to New York for a Broadway opening Feb. 8.

Herbert Whitaker, theatre critic for the Globe and Mail, said the musical was "a mighty impressive theatrical panorama" but said the subtitle technique need improving.

He said the production was "richly scenic, surprisingly melodic, and acted with gusto and elan. And it manages to be both funny and dramatic."

Of the sub-titles, he commented: "It takes a bit of getting used to, this device—even if you are familiar with the English sub-titling of films. One still reads lines, finding it hard to catch the rhythm of changing slides. But last night's presentation at O'Keefe Centre was a world first, and there are obvious improvements in the technique to be introduced."

Rugantino is a 19th-century tale of a legendary vagabond "whose fate it is to have his head chopped off by his oldest friend to prove to the woman he loves he is truly in love," Mr. Whitaker says.

BORDER CHARGES LAID BY ETHIOPIA, SOMALIA

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI)—The Ethiopian foreign ministry charged today armed bandits from Somalia this week attacked an Ethiopian police station and a police convoy, resulting in at least 58 persons killed.

MOGADISCIO, Somalia (UPI)—The foreign ministry charged today that Ethiopian fighter planes attacked and destroyed Somalia police posts at two points along the Ethiopian border in a series of raids Wednesday.

Cultural Swap Set Up in Paris

(Times News Services)

PARIS—Canada and France have agreed on a program for increased cultural exchanges between the two nations, it was learned today.

GLENN
... "go" for Senate?

Glenn Orbits Out of Space Into Politics

HOUSTON (UPI)—U.S. senior astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., giving up his "first love," today resigned from the nation's space program to run for the U.S. Senate from his native state of Ohio.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the 42-year-old spaceman "today requested to be relieved of his assignment" with the space agency and its $20 billion program to land men on the moon before the end of the decade.

Top Democratic sources said the astronaut will run for the seat now held by Sen. Stephen Young of Ohio. Glenn is expected to fly to Columbus, Ohio, to formally announce his candidacy.

Glenn vaulted into the history books Feb. 20, 1962, when he rode a silver Atlas rocket into the skies from Cape Canaveral (now Cape Kennedy) and made America's first manned orbital voyage around earth.

Panama Talks Snagged Again

PANAMA CITY (UPI)—A U.S.-Panama agreement for resumption of diplomatic relations appeared on the verge of collapse today and a new political crisis seemed to be brewing.

Persistent reports circulated that Panama planned to expel American diplomats unless the United States agreed formally to negotiate a new Panama Canal Treaty.

Panama City newspapers quoted official sources as saying the government has requested U.S. embassy personnel to leave. Wallace Stewart, U.S. charge d'affaires, said he knew nothing about the report. He noted that technically relations remain broken.

Meanwhile, embassy officials waited with packed bags.

The agreement reached only 24 hours ago was under heavy fire over the issue of whether the United States is willing to "negotiate" a new canal treaty or merely "discuss" that possibility with other issues stemming from last week's rioting.

A Spanish version of the agreement used the term

Details of the program are to be disclosed Friday in the windup communiqué following visiting Prime Minister Lester Pearson's talks with President Charles de Gaulle and other French leaders.

Informed sources said the program will involve "at least $100,000" and be accented on a scholarship exchange program between the two nations.

The agreement is part of a general drive by the two governments to lend new meaning to the historic bonds between them. Efforts already have been made to boost exchanges between the respective public-owned broadcasting systems and film agencies.

FINAL STAGES

Word of the scholarship program, which may include performing artists as well, broke off as Pearson moved into the final stages of his informal discussions with French leaders.

He met Prime Minister Georges Pompidou for 30 minutes privately and then joined him at lunch. There was no official word on this meeting except that the talks were "useful."

Later in the day Pearson returned to the Elysee Palace, where he met with de Gaulle for 90 minutes Wednesday, for a final session with the president. The two men met alone Wednesday, but were joined this time by other ministers.

There was support for the general impression among the Canadians that the talks were going well in the fact that de Gaulle asked Pearson to remain half an hour beyond the planned time for their first meeting. When it ended, de Gaulle personally conducted Pearson to the door and bade him goodbye as he drove back to his hotel.

DENY REPORTS

Officials denied reports that the welcome given Pearson was any less enthusiastic than that given Premier Lesage of Quebec when he

VISITING Governor of Alabama, George Wallace, right, was met at Pat Bay Airport today by Dr. Edgar Efrat, sponsor of the University of Victoria political science club which invited the controversial American to speak here. Gov. Wallace arrived in a private Lockheed Lodestar executive plane, which was flying the Confederate flag.

WALLACE TELLS CANADA:

'Let Negroes Enter Then Criticize South'

By PETE LOUDON

Alabama's Governor George Wallace today threw the question of racial intolerance back into the teeth of his Victoria press conference questioners.

"You don't have any Negroes here because your immigration laws are such," he said.

"I feel that if any of you people think this is a great moral issue, you should lead a drive to change your immigration laws and bring in Negroes," he said.

He added that far too many people "preach one system and practice another."

STRONG SUPPORT

The governor was speaking just prior to his noon invitation speech to Victoria University students in the Students Union Building at Gordon Head campus.

He came in the course of a speaking tour of the north-west United States, where he said his reception had been one of enthusiastic support for his pro-segregation policies.

They were highlighted last June 11 when he defied a federal government order for integration of the University of Alabama and backed down only when confronted by armed troops.

The governor was outspoken in defence of his idea that black and white peoples should enjoy equal rights but in separate societies.

BLAMES REDS

He condemned publications such as Time magazine for reporting that Birmingham was the scene of race violence.

He blamed all the notorious troubles there on Communist agitators, and he defended the use of dogs and fire hoses in quelling Negroes as safe and sane alternatives to clubbing people with nightsticks.

"Hoses are a very humane way to stop a riot. There were only 22 people hurt in 45 days, and you couldn't find any seriously injured person," he said.

"A dog does away with having to hit someone with a nightstick. He doesn't bite, he only catches your clothes."

IN JOBS

Here are other quotes from the press conference:

"We oppose integration in society and education, but we have had it for a long time in employment. We feel it is the right of the people

CHOU JOINS NKURUMAH IN PARLEY CALL

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—President Kwame Nkrumah and Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai today declared desirable the convening of an "anti-imperialist conference" of Afro-Asian and Latin American peoples.

The declaration was made in a communiqué issued here following Chou's departure earlier today for Mali after a five-day visit to Ghana.

During the visit he was estimated to have held 10 hours of formal and informal talks with Nkrumah.

The two leaders also considered a conference of the world's heads of government would be beneficial "if it would be convened for the purpose of signing an international convention prohibiting the development and use of all nuclear weapons and the complete destruction of existing nuclear weapons and their stockpiles."

Southeasterly winds of up to 25 miles an hour are expected overnight. Temperatures may fall to about 35 degrees tonight rising to 45 Friday morning.

The temperature at Gonzales weather station at noon was 42.

RUBY McKAY SPEAKS OUT

B.C. 'Sadly' Fails to Recruit Social Workers

By PETE LOUDON

(Third in a Series)

Is the British Columbia government making a sincere attempt to recruit more social workers for its over-worked welfare service?

Some light was thrown on the question last week when Welfare Minister W. D. Black said in a television interview that he has never visited with the school of social work faculty at University of B.C.

Former superintendent of child welfare in B.C., Miss Ruby McKay holds herself

Her only comment on the lack of liaison is: "How sad."

On the positive side, however, she states, "The schools of social work in Canada offer fine training."

Entice More

"I would think the government in its present situation, where it admits it needs social workers so desperately,

would go to UBC and place its problems before the faculty school and together work out the kind of scholarship and bursary plan necessary to entice more students into the field."

She said other provinces constantly negotiate with their universities in this regard.

In a previous chapter in this series, Miss McKay said the prime way to relieve B.C. social workers from an overworking burden is the recruitment of high school graduates for the routine work in welfare district offices.

Should Get Aid

She says these people also should be encouraged to later attend university for training in the handling of difficult human problems. They should be given leave of absence and financial aid. Prior to this they should receive carefully planned in-service training and be subject to annual review of their job performance.

"With qualified supervisors the unqualified, gifted person can be a valuable adjunct to the professional," she states.

"It seems to me we might liken the social welfare branch to a large general hospital set up to treat large numbers of people with different conditions and needs. The hospital must have doctors and nurses, but it also must have a core of allied technical staff—lab and X-ray technicians. And to free graduate nurses to the work for which they are trained, a plan of nurses' aides has long been effective."

"Some district offices of the social work branch do have similar systems in effect where trained and experienced staff are free to devote their efforts and skills to the family in trouble, the child needing care and protection or adoption placement, the unwed mother and the deeply disturbed small adolescent.

Determine Needs

"I gather that where such systems exist they have been found effective," said Miss McKay. She said she feels it would strengthen the whole department if a uniform plan emerged, determining what type of staff should be engaged to ensure efficient, appropriate handling of each client and the freeing of highly trained personnel to tasks worthy of their training.

But the professionals now in the work must be freed from the great burdens they now carry if they are to instruct the non-professionals. There are only five in the field now who hold a master's degree and only 30 with bachelor of social work degrees, out of a total social work staff of almost 250.

There are, as well, about 30 supervisors of whom 10 have

Gale Winds Rip Island; Damage Light

Comox Valley Clogged

Victoria was swept by gales and gusts of up to 65 miles an hour early today while heavy snow fell in the Comox Valley.

Other parts of the Island, including northerly Port Hardy, reported mild uneventful weather.

The gales reached their maximum force between 4 and 5 a.m., but strong westerly winds were felt for several hours after. Trees and fences were blown down and some roof damage was reported along the Dallas Road waterfront.

FOOT OF SNOW

Between nine and 12 inches of snow fell in Campbell River and the Comox Valley between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m., and in lesser amounts the snow extended as far south as NanOOSE Bay, which is 15 miles north of Nanaimo.

Pacific Western Airlines cancelled its morning flight to Campbell River because of 12 inches of snow at the airport. Instead, passengers from Vancouver are being landed at Comox and taken onto Campbell River by coach.

The flight to Comox was delayed three hours while Comox Airport was being cleared of snow.

CARS STRANDED

A number of motorists were stranded overnight between Comox and Courtenay. The RCMP at Comox reported several cars were unable to climb the fairly steep hill just outside Comox.

Comox Village had 12 inches of snow and plows were in operation all night. At noon today conditions were reported to be improving rapidly with no further snow expected.

Telephone circuits in the Comox Valley were thrown out of order by the snow and the service between Victoria and Comox and Courtenay was interrupted for more than an hour.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines' regular passenger service to Campbell River was interrupted by the snowfall.

Light snow was reported at Parksville, Qualicum Beach and Port Alberni.

By contrast with Vancouver Island's snow and wind, the temperature climbed to an unseasonable 53 degrees at Abbotsford in the lower Fraser Valley.

Victoria weatherman Bill Mackie forecasts showers this afternoon and evening, followed by fairly heavy rainfall Friday.

Southeasterly winds of up to 25 miles an hour are expected overnight. Temperatures may fall to about 35 degrees tonight rising to 45 Friday morning.

The temperature at Gonzales weather station at noon was 42.

ROGERS PASS CLOSED, WAVES WHIP WEST VAN

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winds gusting up to 60 miles per hour battered parts of the B.C. Lower Mainland Wednesday night and in the interior storms dumped several inches of snow in some areas.

The Rogers Pass highway between B.C. and Alberta was closed at 9 a.m. this morning after an army Howitzer crew brought down several snowslides which covered the highway to a depth of four feet.

Up to 13 inches of snow fell on sections of the road during the night, but the highway is expected to be open later today.

Wind-swept waves crashing over a seawall in West Vancouver flooded the basements of 11 homes in the early morning.

Police and firemen helped occupants haul out furniture and other belongings from basement suites as the 10-foot high waves pounded the homes. One wave hurled a 15-foot log into a home.

WITH U.S.

Fishery Limit Accord Likely

OTTAWA (CP)—Fisheries Minister Robichaud reiterated today that he is "quite hopeful" of getting United States agreement to observe the 12-mile fishing limit Canada plans to impose along its coasts next May.

He said this would mean the U.S. giving up the historic rights of American fishermen to fish Canada's coastal waters, areas they have fished for centuries.

Canada now has a three-mile fishing limit, within its territorial waters, but has served notice that it intends to extend this to 12 miles as a conservation measure and to protect the interests of Canadian coastal fishermen. It would keep foreign fishermen outside the new line.

Two meetings on the question have been held with the Americans and a third is planned early in February. Mr. Robichaud said talks so far have been "very satisfactory" and the final agreement could come next month.

Once the American agreement is nailed down, Canada will resume negotiations with other countries in a bid to get complete agreement before the May move. France, Portugal, Iceland, Japan and Russia are involved.

TREATIES NOT INVOLVED
The negotiations do not involve the treaty rights of foreign fishermen.

"We do not intend to interfere with any treaty," Mr. Robichaud stressed. Only the historical, or traditional, rights are being re-negotiated. They would be erased gradually, probably over 10 years.

Canada is anxious not to force the issue with the U.S. in case annoyed U.S. legislators decide to retaliate with restrictions on Canadian fish imports. The U.S. now is Canada's biggest market for fish products, taking an estimated $175,000,000 of the $157,000,000 worth Canada exported in 1962.

Collision In Channel

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—The Belgian Dover-to-Ostende channel ferry Konig Alberik collided today with an oil tanker some 10 miles off Dover, the Belgian communications ministry official said today.

Back when our young man had time for such endeavors, he used to take a lot of pleasure from keeping tropical fish. By degrees, though, his interest was diverted. The 10-gallon tank sat on its table, getting greener and greener, also smellier and smellier, until his mother decided she'd better do something about it.

As she studied this little sargasso sea, wondering how best to drain it, the weed curtain parted.

Win found herself gazing into the bleary eyes and mournful face of a vast old angel fish, the aquarium's last survivor.

This posed a problem. She had assumed Ron's tank to be empty of life, and looked forward to retiring the clumsy, space-taking relic to the basement.

As a temporary solution, Win netted the castaway and decanted him, feebly flapping, into the bowl ruled by my tough pet goldfish.

Then she set to on the tank, bailing, uprooting and scouring until all was sparkling clean.

Meanwhile, Suki the goldfish hadn't taken kindly to his visitor. He kept butting the angel fish and nipping his fins. So Win transferred Suki to half a glass double boiler, where he sulked furiously.

A little desperate now, Win refilled the tropical fish tank with water she hoped would be the correct temperature, and dumped the angel back in.

When I got home, the tank occupied half a kitchen counter. Win perched on a stool, watching an angel, who although still—more ghost than fish, had perked up considerably. With his dark stripes, he made a handsome spectacle as he cruised to and fro.

Handsomeness, Win observed, but lonely.

"I believe they keep tropical fish at the variety store," she said. "Next time we're in, perhaps we can pick one up to keep him company."

That same evening, she acquired a black mollie, a neat little fish about two inches long, with a sooty hide, a jeweled eye, and a pot belly. It happened the variety store was selling out its tropicals, so she also bought a neon tetra, a blue glint of a fish no longer than a close-clipped fingernail.

A baby guppy happened to stow away in the container. He was only about a third the size of the neon tetra, but Win was pleased with him.

"That gives me four fish, counting the angel," she said, watching her pets contentedly. "Ron has an air pump and some other things somewhere. I'm sure he'll lend them to me."

"Wasn't he planning to sell the tank?" I asked.

"Not any more," said Win. "He's going to lend me that, too."

These concessions, Ron learned about when he checked in soon after. Grumbling, he hunted out pump, air filter, heater, thermometer and some leftover fish food.

It was by this time obvious that our queen bee had acquired... or been acquired by... a hobby.

The sad-eyed old angel fish now has 19 companions of various species, sizes, colors and personalities.

There's a barred tetra, a striped and black-kilted little Highlander of a fish who has chummed up with the cowardly angel, and guards him from attack by a green sword-tail.

Ron has brought home a platy, a catfish, a two-spot barb, a gourami, a marbled mollie and a snail.

He got such a fuss made over him for those contributions that I was forced to counter with a moon, a red swordtail, some neon tetras, a lacey gourami with filigreed fins and graceful feelers, and a female guppy.

On the rare occasions when someone forgets his manners and eats somebody else, one or other of us hastens to provide a replacement.

It isn't that Win twists our arms, or even hints. She merely broods over her depleted garden of fishes, looking sad.

What she likes best about her hobby, she tells us, is that it isn't a bit expensive. "All it's cost me so far," she announced blandly to us the other night, "is one dollar and fifty-four cents!"

Loot Worth $20,000 Recovered

25-Year-Old Man Charged In City, Saanich Case

City police seized $20,000 worth of goods from a Fairfield home in an early morning raid today.

They also arrested a 25-year-old man.

Donald Champion, 182 Joseph, appeared in city police court this morning charged with breaking and entering, and possession of stolen goods.

Bail was set at $2,000, and the case was put over to Friday afternoon.

Det. Sgt. William Andrews told the Times today that this morning's raid climaxed a two-day investigation started by a tip to Cons. John Rickerby.

VARIED COLLECTION

Seized were cameras, power tools, two television sets, three tape recorders, a high fidelity phonograph, transistor radios, a tool chest, saws, drills, an electric planer, chisels, and other equipment, and a boat trailer.

"We believe this is the proceeds of several break-ins in the Saanich and Colwood areas," said Sgt. Andrews.

Some of the seized goods were reported stolen as much as a year ago, police said.

A truck was required to haul the goods from the Fairfield address to the Saanich police station, where it is stored in the basement.

SORTING GOODS

City detectives Lester Clark and Les Mottershead began the investigation for the city department, and Dets. Lorne Johnson and Ted James later were called in.

ESQUIMALT MAN GUILTY OF FORGERY

An Esquimalt man pleaded guilty to eight forgery charges in Esquimalt police court this morning.

Norman Keith Loadman, whose record goes back to 1943, was charged with a series of cheque forgeries that netted him a total of about $115.

"I'm an alcoholic," he told the magistrate.

Cpl. Robert Duncan told the court that Loadman had written a series of counter cheques on an active account in a downtown bank.

The account holder didn't know his funds were being tapped until the last two counter cheques bounced and were referred to him for payment.

Loadman is to be sentenced Friday morning.

300-Unit Subdivision Planned Here

A land assembly program in North Saanich conducted by a Vancouver realty firm is believed connected to a 300-lot subdivision planned for this year in the Victoria area by the nation's biggest house-building firm.

Consolidated Building Corporation representative Gerry Rea, in Richmond said his Toronto-based firm is "definitely" seeking a sizeable chunk of land in this area now.

"They do their real estate buying from Toronto headquarters so I'm not absolutely certain that the options being taken north of the Sandown racetrack are ours but I'd be willing to bet they are," he said.

DEFINITE PLANS

"I know our company plans definitely to develop a 250 to 300-lot subdivision in the Victoria area this year.

"It's just a matter of getting the land as soon as possible and we'll start building because our surveys show there is a definite need for more housing near Victoria.

Consolidated Building Corporation is the largest subdivision developer in Canada and recently expanded its operations into New York. It has headquarters in Toronto and offices in most big cities.

The Christie Point Garden Apartments project was its first development in this area and it currently is developing a huge subdivision in Richmond.

2,500 LAST YEAR

"Last year we built close to 2,500 housing units and this year we plan to step that up to 4,000.

"One thousand of those houses would be in the west—that is Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary and Edmonton—and in addition we plan 450 apartment units in the west," said Mr. Rea.

Earlier, real estate agent R. H. Dennis of Pemberton Realty Corporation Ltd. in Vancouver refused to comment on reports he was obtaining options on a total of 750 acres between the race track and Wains Cross Road.

"It's all rumors and there's no comment," he said. "My principals are out-of-town people and I can't say anything."

But both Mr. Rea and other Consolidated officials said the North Saanich land assembly was the right size for the contemplated development by their firm.

HARD LIFE AS YOUNGSTER

Busy Labor Head Wears Many Hats

By RAY SINCLAIR

If the Toone is familiar it must be the words that make it so.

Some Victorians know one word, some another, and some know them all.

Alderman, secretary-treasurer, director, member. They are all applicable to Alfred W. Toone throughout his working day.

Through a pressing schedule of daily activities, Alf Toone is known and liked by the "working man" of Victoria, whom he represents as secretary-treasurer of Victoria Labor Council.

Wednesday night they demonstrated their admiration by re-electing him for the eighth time. (See page 15.)

Since 1960, Alf Toone has represented Victoria-at-large as city alderman. He is the first labor man to do so.

COMMUNITY GROUPS

And because of his interest in the welfare of the people, he is director and member of many city organizations ranging from the Community Chest to the Senior Citizens' Housing Society.

In 1957, he had to relinquish both positions when he was elected to the V.L.C.

In 1960, he became a city alderman.

"I was one of the few people to stand and give council the time demanded," he said.

"This was because the labor people offered me the time."

HEART ATTACK

Five years ago, the pressure felled him with a heart attack. A month later, he was out of hospital, and "supposed to give up all major activities.

"I decided that I should live a useful life or none at all. I just kept going. I don't run for buses, or anything like that."

Living on Moss Street with wife Jean and daughter Susan Jean Elizabeth, a 15-year-old Vic High student, Alf Toone speaks proudly of his family.

Terry, born in the hard days of Gleichen, is a 23-year-old correction officer in Vancouver Island's minimum security establishment. "I hope he'll come back and finish his degree," he added.

His older brothers have also been successful.

"Frank is an optometrist, and Mark is a doctor," he said.

"I have quite enough to do to."

100 Trees Offered As Gift

A Canadian trust company today offered city council $800 for planting of 100 trees, with no strings attached.

Similar gifts are being offered to 30 Canadian communities by The Canada Trust Company-Huron & Erie Mortgage Corporation as its method of celebrating its 100th anniversary.

Disclaiming any desire for recognition in the way of plaques, company head J. A. Taylor wrote:

"We will be wholly satisfied if the trees contribute to civic beautification and the pleasure of your citizens."

He said the company would underwrite the cost of the 100 trees but the city would have to plant and maintain them.

The company would leave choice of species "either shade or ornamental" to the city and "they may be planted in any location you wish, singly or in groves."

The offer was expected to be accepted with alacrity by city council because it would work in well with the continuous tree-planting program for residential and downtown streets.

Bridge Too Low, Load Too High

A low bridge scraped a huge log from the load of a logging truck and spilled it into a ditch Wednesday night.

The truck driver told police he hadn't thought about the 13' 5" clearance at the railway bridge at the foot of Four Mile Hill on Highway 1-A.

'NEVER HEARD OF HIM'

Police Commission Member 'Mystery'

By FRANK BUTTER

A man of mystery has been appointed to Victoria's police commission.

His name is John G. Martin. Police and city officials do not know him. They do not know anything about him.

The appointment was made by a provincial cabinet order this week.

"Never heard of him," said the attorney-general's department.

"No idea who he is," said city hall.

"Nobody seems to know him," said city police.

All three take some interest in the appointment of police commissioners, usually men who have some status in community affairs, or a record of experience in law enforcement.

MAYOR IN DARK

But Mayor R. B. Wilson knows nothing about Mr. Martin.

Police Chief John Gregory doesn't know him.

Nor does Attorney-General Robert Bonner, according to officials in his department.

"quite ill" at home and his telephone number is unlisted. He is Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black.

Police-commission appointments are made under the Municipal Act, although in practice the attorney-general's department usually has a big say.

This time the appointment was made while Mr. Bonner and his deputy minister were away in Ottawa.

ONE LISTING

Nobody lower down in the department knows who Mr. Martin is.

The only John G. Martin listed in the Victoria directory lives at Larkdowne, which is in Oak Bay.

He is listed as "retired."

But he apparently is out of town as there has been no answer to his telephone for two days.

The only thing anyone does know about the appointment is that Mr. Martin replaces commissioner William J. Hamilton, whose term expired Dec. 31.

Two other local police commissioners, whose identity is known, were appointed by the cabinet.

Lionel C. Speller, 3628 Saanich Rd., an ambulance driver at Veterans Hospital, is named to the Saanich Police Commission.

He replaces Councillor Leslie Passmore.

Central Saanich Councillor Percy F. Warren replaces V. J. Wood, who resigned from the Central Saanich Commission because of ill health.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liverpool will play one and possibly two exhibition soccer games here early this summer, B.C. soccer commission officials announced today.

The English first division side will meet Vancouver All-Stars in one game and a touring professional team in the second. The exhibitions will be played late in May or early in June.

Mafia Blamed In Australia Killings

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—An Italian-born fruit merchant, Vincent Muratore, 43, was killed by a shotgun blast outside his suburban home today and the police said they thought the Mafia, Italy's secret underworld society, might be responsible.

Muratore was the third victim of a Mafia-style shooting in Melbourne during the last nine months.

Cultural Swap
Set Up in Paris

(Times News Services)

PARIS—Canada and France have agreed on a program for increased cultural exchanges between the two nations, it was learned today.

Details of the program are to be disclosed Friday in the windup communique following visiting Prime Minister Lester Pearson's talks with President Charles de Gaulle and other French leaders.

Informed sources said the program will involve "at least $100,000" and be centered on a scholarship exchange program between the two nations.

The agreement is part of a general drive by the two governments to lend new meaning to the historic bonds between them. Efforts already have been made to boost exchanges between the respective public owned broadcasting systems and film agencies.

FINAL STAGES

Word of the scholarship program, which may include performing artists as well, broke off as Pearson moved into the final stages of his informal discussions with French leaders.

He met Prime Minister Georges Pompidou for 30 minutes privately and then joined him at lunch. There was no official word on this meeting except that the talks were "useful."

Later in the day Pearson returned to the Elysee Palace, where he met with de Gaulle for a 90-minute session, for a final session with the president. The two men met alone Wednesday, but were joined this time by other ministers.

There was support for the general impression among the Canadians that the talks were going well in the fact that de Gaulle asked Pearson to remain half an hour beyond the planned time for his first meeting. When it ended, de Gaulle personally conducted Pearson to the door and bade him goodbye as he drove back to his hotel.

DENY REPORTS

Officials denied reports that the welcome given Pearson was any less enthusiastic than that given Premier Lesage of Quebec when he arrived in Ottawa.

DAMAGE LIGHT

Gale Winds
Rip Island

Victoria was swept by gales and gusts of up to 65 miles an hour early today while heavy snow fell in the Comox Valley.

Other parts of the Island, including northerly Port Hardy, reported mild uneventful weather.

The gales reached their maximum force between 4 and 5 a.m., but strong westerly winds were felt for several hours after. Trees and fences were blown down and some roof damage was reported along the Dallas Road waterfront.

FOOT OF SNOW

Between nine and 12 inches of snow fell in Campbell River and the Comox Valley between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m., and in lesser amounts the snow extended as far south as Nanaimo Bay, which is 15 miles north of Nanaimo.

Pacific Western Airlines cancelled its morning flight to Campbell River because of 12 inches of snow at the airport. Instead, passengers from Vancouver are being landed at Comox and taken on to Campbell River by coach.

The flight to Comox was delayed three hours while Comox Airport was being cleared of snow.

CARS STRANDED

A number of motorists were stranded overnight between Comox and Courtenay. The RCMP at Comox reported several cars were unable to climb the fairly steep hill just outside Comox.

Comox Village had 12 inches of snow and plows were in operation all night. At noon today conditions were reported to be improving rapidly with no further snow expected.

Telephone circuits in the Comox Valley were thrown out of order by the snow and the service between Victoria and Comox and Courtenay was interrupted for more than an hour.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines' regular passenger service to Campbell River was interrupted by the snowfall.

Light snow was reported at Parksville, Qualicum Beach and Port Alberni.

By contrast with Vancouver Island's snow and wind, the temperature climbed to an unseasonable 53 degrees at Abbotsford in the lower Fraser Valley.

Victoria weatherman Bill Mackie forecasts showers this afternoon and evening, followed by fairly heavy rainfall Friday.

Southeasterly winds of up to 25 miles an hour are expected overnight. Temperatures may fall to about 35 degrees tonight, rising to 45 Friday morning.

The temperature at Gonzales weather station at noon was 42.

CHOU JOINS NKRUMAH IN PARLEY CALL

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—President Kwame Nkrumah and Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai today declared desirable the convening of an "anti-imperialist conference" of Afro-Asian and Latin American peoples.

The declaration was made in a communique issued here following Chou's departure earlier today for Mali after a five-day visit to Ghana.

During the visit he was estimated to have held 10 hours of formal and informal talks with Nkrumah.

'I've Kept Faith'—
Wallace

Alabamians will fight racial integration with dignity, not violence, State Governor George C. Wallace told nearly 1,000 University of Victoria students today.

Violent action over federally ordered integration of schools will only "hurt our cause," he said, repeating what he told citizens during friction over Negro registrations at University of Alabama last year.

"I've kept the faith; you keep the peace."

The issue is whether the states should allow the federal government to take educational authority away from them, Gov. Wallace said. "Can we run the schools, or does someone thousands of miles away do it?"

LAUGHTER

He brought a roar of laughter when he started to say: "There is more compassion and general good feeling for the Negro..."

When the uproar settled he added: "You young people are a long way from the problem. If your immigration laws were changed you would know about it."

The race problem exists with the migration of Negroes to the large cities, the governor said.

"We in Alabama have more feeling for the Negro than in places like Philadelphia — the city of brotherly love — where they can't play night football games due to race riots."

There are no race riots in Alabama, he said.

FEW INVOLVED

No more than 1,000 of Birmingham's 250,000 Negroes were involved in demonstrations, and in a 47-day period, 22 of the 69 injured were Negroes, the other 47 were policemen, students were told.

Yet in a Thanksgiving race riot at a Washington football game there were 485 persons injured.

WALLACE TELLS CANADA:

'Let Negroes Enter,
Then Criticize South'

By PETE LOUDON

Alabama's Governor George Wallace today threw the question of racial intolerance back into the teeth of his Victoria press conference questioners.

"You don't have any Negroes here because your immigration laws are such," he said.

"I feel that if any of you people think this is a great moral issue, you should lead a drive to change your immigration laws and bring in Negroes," he said.

He added that far too many people "preach one system and practice another."

The governor was speaking

Just prior to his noon invitation speech to Victoria University students in the Students Union Building at Gordon Head campus.

He came in the course of a speaking tour of the north-west United States, where he said his reception had been one of enthusiastic support for his pro-segregation policies.

They were highlighted last June 11 when he defied a federal government order for integration of the University of Alabama and backed down only when confronted by armed troops.

The governor was outspoken in defence of his idea that black and white peoples should enjoy equal rights but in separate societies.

He condemned publications such as Time magazine for reporting that Birmingham was the scene of race violence.

He blamed all the notorious troubles there on Communist agitators, and he defended

Senate
Bid
By Glenn

HOUSTON (UPI)—U.S. senior astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., giving up his "first love," today resigned from the nation's space program to run for U.S. Senate from his native state of Ohio.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the 42-year-old spaceman "today requested to be relieved of his assignment" with the space agency and its $20 billion program to land men on the moon before the end of the decade.

Top Democratic sources said the astronaut will run for the seat now held by Sen. Stephen Young of Ohio. Glenn is expected to fly to Columbus, Ohio, to formally announce his candidacy.

Glenn vaulted into the history books Feb. 20, 1962, when he rode a silvery Atlas rocket into the skies from Cape Canaveral (now Cape Kennedy) and made America's first manned orbital voyage around earth.

Fishery Accord
Likely

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Robichaud reiterated today that he is "quite hopeful" of getting United States agreement to observe the 12-mile fishing limit Canada plans to impose along its coasts next May.

He said this would mean the U.S. giving up the historic rights of American fishermen to fish Canada's coastal waters, areas they have fished for centuries.

Canada now has a three-mile fishing limit, within its territorial waters, but has served notice that it intends to extend this to 12 miles as a conservation measure and to protect the interests of Canadian coastal fishermen. It would keep foreign fishermen outside the new line.

Two meetings on the question have been held with the Americans and a third is planned early in February. Mr. Robichaud said talks so far have been "very satisfactory" and the final agreement could come next month.

Once the American agreement is nailed down, Canada will resume negotiations with other countries in a bid to get

RUBY McKAY SPEAKS OUT

B.C. 'Sadly' Fails to Recruit Social Workers

(Third in a Series)

Is the British Columbia government making a sincere attempt to recruit more social workers for its over-worked welfare service?

Some light was thrown on the question last week when Welfare Minister W. D. Black said in a television interview that he has never visited with the school of social work faculty at University of B.C.

Former superintendent of child welfare in B.C., Miss

Ruby McKay holds herself aloof from politics and personal brickbats in discussing her ideas for improving the service.

Her only comment on the lack of liaison is:

"How sad."

On the positive side, however, she states, "The schools of social work in Canada offer fine training."

Entice More

"I would think the government in its present situation, where it admits it needs social workers so desperately, would go to UBC and place its problems before the faculty school and together work out the kind of scholarship and bursary plan necessary to entice more students into the field."

She said other provinces constantly negotiate with their universities in this regard.

In a previous chapter in this series, Miss McKay said the prime way to relieve B.C. social workers from an overpowering burden is the recruitment of high school graduates for the routine work in welfare district offices.

Should Get Aid

She says these people also should be encouraged to later attend university for training in the handling of difficult human problems. They should be given leave of absence and financial aid.

Prior to this they should receive carefully planned in-service training and be subject to annual review of their job performance.

"With qualified supervisors the unqualified, gifted person can be a valuable adjunct to the professional," she states.

"It seems to me we might liken the social welfare branch to a large general hospital set up to treat large numbers of people with different conditions and needs."

"The hospital must have doctors and nurses, but it

CHATHAM, Ont.—Two drivers chose a three-day jail term and a third paid a $15 fine Wednesday for operating unsafe cars.

Police said that when Victor Hood, 27, was stopped Dec. 30, one of his car's headlights was rusted out of the fender; the brake, signal and licence-plate lights were not working; five windows were broken; the front end was out of alignment; the front seat tipped back 45 degrees; there was a seven-inch piece of jagged chrome jutting from the side; two tires were nearly flat and the other two had cord showing through.

Hood chose jail rather than a $15 fine.

Raymond Paquette, 23, was driving a car Dec. 7 which had no hand or foot brakes, no lights, badly worn tires and a body so badly rusted police said they were amazed the doors were still attached. Paquette, who works in a garage as a body repair man, paid the fine.

In the third case, police said when they stopped Robert Blanchette Jan. 7 his car had no floor boards in front, no hand brakes, no lights, a broken exhaust pipe and a body so badly rusted it could not be repaired. Blanchette also chose three days in jail.

COLLEGE PARK, Md.—Students at the University of Maryland discovered during a recent snowstorm that cafeteria trays make wonderful sleds, and that's how all the trouble began.

B. James Borreson, executive dean for student life, ordered all trays removed from the university dining halls after 40 to 50 students were injured and 4,000 trays disappeared.

"It's the most hazardous kind of thing you could imagine," Borreson said.

Removal of all the trays set off a noisy demonstration by about 1,000 trayless diners and campus police had to be called to restore order.

LONDON—Europeans alarmed by the U.S. government report on smoking turned to governments, hypnotists and little blue pipes for women today to help them kick the cigarette habit.

In The Netherlands, tobacco shop owners reported a run on pipes by women. They said they were selling small, elegant ladies' pipes, painted brown or bright blue.

Some shopkeepers said they were installing mirrors so their women customers could see how they look with the pipes.

The state-owned Danish Radio announced it would broadcast an hour of anti-smoking hypnotism Friday night by "cure expert" Paul Kofod.

Kofod said he planned to get listeners to "relax in every little muscle," then suggest to them that they later "will feel an increasing disgust of tobacco... you will not want to smoke."

In Paris, city councilman Andre Wel-Curiel sent a letter to the health ministry demanding that it ban all tobacco advertising.

The French tobacco industry is a government monopoly.

HYTHE, England—An orchid fancier admitted today he stole 25 rare orchids from the famed Rothschild greenhouses to enhance his own collection.

"My interest in this plant got out of proportion, and to improve my display I went to Exbury and took some," said Mervyn Henry Phillips, 32.

Exbury is the site of the orchid collection kept by Edmund De Rothschild, the London banker.

Phillips told the court: "I found the lure of the orchid just too much. I cannot say why it fascinates me. With some people it is stamps. With me it is orchids."

He was fined £40 ($120). The orchids were returned intact.

NEW YORK—Just to think about it would give most householders the willies: A million termites.

But someone here has received a gift of precisely that many and is delighted.

The gift, comprising the world's largest collection of termite specimens, was made to the American Museum of Natural History. It came from Dr. Alfred E. Emerson, professor emeritus of zoology at the University of Chicago and a research associate in entomology at the museum.

Dr. Emerson spent years in collecting the specimens around the world. They will be used for scientific study at the museum.

age visited here two years ago.

De Gaulle's absence from the airport was described as official protocol requiring the head of the French government—Pompidou—to meet the head of Canadian government.

De Gaulle, as head of state, would receive the visiting Canadian head of state—the governor-general.

The assessment of Wednesday's events was that both Pearson and de Gaulle, conversing with only an interpreter present, let down their hair on the whole range of international affairs in a manner that promised closer relations between the two in future.

Mr. Pearson said in an interview published here today he hopes France and Canada would hold more frequent talks at ministerial level on problems of common interest.

The Canadian leader told the newspaper Le Monde: "I consider that the framework of our relations should be enlarged to reflect the profound development of our two countries."

Referring to France's refusal to allow stockpiling of American nuclear warheads for the RCAF division based in France, he said Canada had submitted to NATO a proposal which, if agreed upon, should enable the air division to fulfill its mission better. He gave no details.

PAYS HOMAGE

Mr. Pearson today paid homage on behalf of his country to Frenchmen who died in two world wars—in both cases fighting as Canada's allies.

Pearson motored up the Avenue des Champs-Élysées to the Arc de Triomphe to place a wreath on the tomb of the French unknown soldier. The unidentified hero beneath the

Nuclear Jet Crewman's Body Found

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)—State police Wednesday found another crew member of the nuclear jet bomber that crashed in the mountains near here Monday morning. He was dead, about five miles northwest of the crash scene. Tracks led away from it. Rescue teams battled their way through heavy snow early today to the spot where the airman was found.

He was the fourth member of the five-man crew to be accounted for. Two have turned up safely and another was found dead in the wreckage of the plane.

The airman were aboard a big air force jet bomber that went down in a blizzard before daybreak Monday with two nuclear bombs aboard.

BOMBS RECOVERED

The weapons were recovered safely. They had not been primed.

The pilot, 42-year-old Maj. Thomas W. McCormick of York, Pa., waded through waist-deep snow drifts to a farmhouse Monday afternoon after he had waited out the storm.

His co-pilot, Capt. Parker C. Peedin, 29, of Smithfield, N.C., was found Tuesday after a civil air patrol plane spotted a flash from his signal mirror.

Peedin had spent more than 36 hours on a snowy mountain-side; but like McCormick, he had used his parachute to form a shelter against the below-freezing temperatures. He built a fire to keep warm.

Both men were reported in good physical condition. They were exhausted and had slight colds.

Wind, Rain Snow Lash Washington

SEATTLE (AP)—A heavy wind and rain storm raked western Washington during the night, then swept across the Cascades and pushed toward the Rockies where the weather bureau expected it to pick up force again.

Gusts to 50 miles an hour were recorded in the Puget Sound region after the storm, generated by a vigorous cold front, hit the coast.

Militia Command Set Up By Arabs

CAIRO (AP)—The 13-nation Arab summit conference has agreed to set up a joint military command in an effort to head off Israel's diversion of Jordan River waters.

In a remarkable display of unity, the often feuding leaders of 100,000,000 Arabs voted Wednesday night to establish a military committee with administrative and financial possibilities as well as permanent headquarters, and all that these entail," a spokesman said.

A final summit session to approve the resolution was expected tonight.

Though the spokesman said Arab leaders had agreed on a "positive solution" of the problem raised by Israel's irrigation project, it still was generally doubted they anticipate war with Israel soon.

The spokesman said the agreement did not specify the area in which Arab forces might operate and did not limit the command to any specific task. He would not say whether troops of one nation would be stationed in the territory of another. He said no site had been selected for the command's headquarters.

Joint military commands have been proclaimed with great fanfare in the Arab world in the past, but they have usually foundered in the traditional discord of the Middle East. Most arrangements have involved President Nasser's United Arab Republic and one or more other countries.

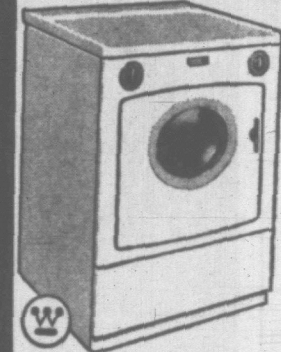

However, this would be the first joint command of the entire Arab world.

GAVE NO DETAILS

The spokesman would give no details of the new command and declined to say whether all Arab states would participate.

The spokesman said the
